

Soviet Says No Policy Change Due

MOSCOW, Oct. 16 (UPI)—The Soviet Union rushed to assure the world today that its policy of peaceful co-existence will continue without Nikita S. Khrushchev. At the same time the Soviets began a housecleaning of Khrushchev's top aides from the government. Within hours after Khrushchev was relieved of his posts as premier and communist party chief, others in his "kitchen cabinet" of his trusted associates were reported to have suffered the same fate. The chiefs of the Soviet communications agencies were said to have been ousted.

Ouster May Help Rivals' Relationship

Khrushchev himself had not been seen nor heard from, and he was believed to be in total political disgrace or completely broken in health.

In its foreign relations the new government headed by Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier promised to continue Khrushchev's policies.

The United States was one of the first to be reassured that there would be no change in the Russian peaceful co-existence line. Secretary of State Dean Rusk made the same statement to the foreign office in Tokyo earlier.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko went to see United Nations Secretary General U. Thant at his home in New York to inform him that the Soviet foreign policy would remain unchanged.

Explosion of Communist China's first nuclear device was announced today less than 24 hours after disclosure of Khrushchev's ouster. The immediate speculation was that the test was a Soviet test.

President, Red Leader Hold Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Soviet Ambassador Anatoly P. Dobrynin said today after meeting with President Johnson that Russian foreign policy under the new Kremlin leadership would be unchanged.

Dobrynin said this meant a continuation of the policy of peaceful co-existence which Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev pushed.

Dobrynin told newsmen at the White House that Soviet foreign policy had been set forth by communist party conference. Dealing of Khrushchev as premier should not bring any drastic changes, he said.

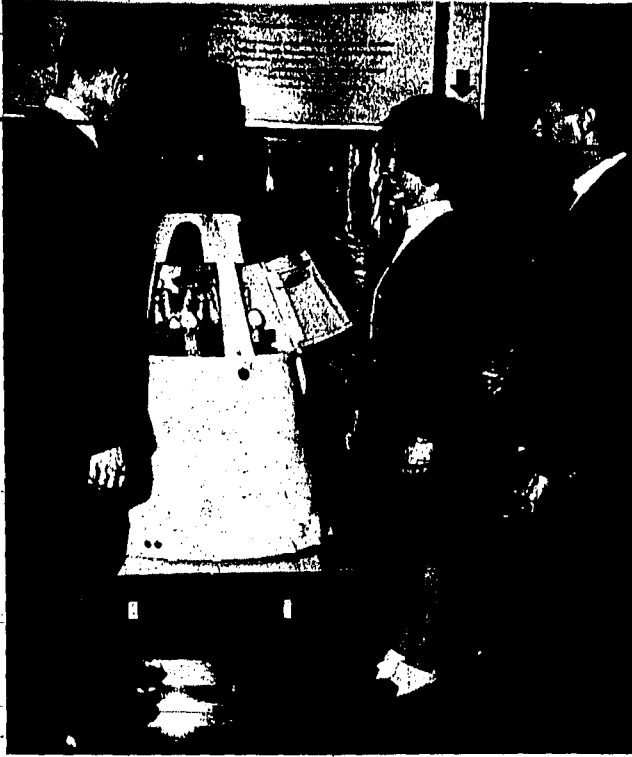

The ambassador said the "fundamental foundation of the Soviet Union's foreign policy is the strengthening of peace."

Dobrynin also said that his government would continue to work for relaxation of tensions. Johnson and Dobrynin conferred in the White House for approximately 45 minutes. The appointment with the President was requested by the Soviet envoy.

Harry S. Truman Is Resting Okay

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 16 (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman rested "comfortably" today and was expected to get out of his bed by Friday, but visitors still were limited to the family and close friends.

The former chief executive, seemingly as robust and cheerful as usual, walked about his hospital room yesterday. His physician said Truman was much improved from injuries suffered in a fall at his home. Truman, now 80, suffered two broken ribs and cuts on his right eyelid and eyebrow Tuesday in a fall against the bathtub of his Independence, Mo., home.

First Atomic Bomb Exploded by China In Western Asia

TOKYO, Oct. 16 (AP)—Communist China joined the world's atomic powers today with an announcement it has exploded its first bomb in the western region of China. The announcement came less than 24 hours after Moscow had exploded a political bombshell of its own—the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev. China's atomic disclosure and the retirement of Khrushchev are likely to raise China's Mao Tse-tung's stature among the world communist leaders.

Johnson Never Got Report on Jenkins

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—President Johnson says he never received "any information of any kind" questioning the personal conduct of Walter W. Jenkins before his longtime aide's arrest on morals charges was disclosed Wednesday night. The chief executive made his first public comment on the Jenkins case last night after returning to the White House from a two-day campaign trip in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York. Expressing the "deepest compassion" for Jenkins and his family, Johnson said, "No man I know has given more personal dedication, devotion and tireless labor." But, he said, "The public interest comes before all personal feelings."

Wyoming Aide Jabs At Harding, Demos

Wyoming Sen. Millard Stimpson mixed humor with sharp verbal jabs at the present administration and Idaho Rep. Ralph Harding during regular meeting of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club here Thursday noon. The meeting was thrown open to the public and the American Legion hall was filled to near capacity to hear the former Wyoming governor, Kiwanis President Gordon Cox read from the Kiwanis International bylaws which permit the club to have

Changes

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (UPI)—The New York Yankees announced today that Yogi Berra will not return as manager next year, but will be retained as a special field consultant under General Manager Ralph Houk.

Berra's failure to return as pilot of the American League pennant winners was the second surprise of the day involving World Series managers.

Earlier Johnny Keane, whose St. Louis Cardinals beat the Yanks in seven games, captured the 1964 World Series, announced his resignation.

"Corruption is an issue in this campaign. This campaign is becoming a campaign of smear—the likes that I have never seen," said the visitor from Wyoming.

"I would be remiss in my duty if I didn't speak out against it," he said.

Stimpson said he was a graduate of Harvard law school who didn't "turn left."

He appealed—for the "angry young men to come forward and help a t a m p out corruption in government."

"Corruption is an issue in this campaign. This campaign is becoming a campaign of smear—the likes that I have never seen," said the visitor from Wyoming.

Prices Drop Into 20-Cent Range as Twin Falls Gasoline War Continues

Twin Falls' gasoline war continued Friday as one independent dropped the price for regular gasoline to 20.5 cents per gallon and expressed the hope that "something could be worked out in a couple of days."

The so-called "gas war," which has been in progress for about three weeks, is being conducted on three levels. The first level involves most major oil companies whose prices for regular gasoline range from 20.9 to 31.9 cents per gallon.

Demo Flays Opponent for Double Talk

George Bliek, incumbent state senator from Twin Falls county, was flayed by his Democratic opponent, Roscoe Wagner, Thursday for being "a double talker, a middle of the roader, afraid to take a stand on any issue."

Wagner made his accusation in answering a charge by Bliek that, as Wagner put it, "I don't know where I speak the 14 million dollar state deficit."

"I am not a double talker," Bliek explained how he and his cohorts developed plans to spend money they didn't have—that is working on tax futures. "I can't run my business on what I don't have," Bliek said, "I can't mortgage what I don't have on next year's expectancy. This is how Mr. Bliek explains his 'red' operation."

"Mr. Bliek can give you five fancy-sounding reasons why he might have been able to get the job done. We don't want excuses, we want results, and Mr. Bliek has never produced results."

Wagner went on to say that he never has advocated that the highway department should be abolished.

"I said," he explained, "we should have a five or seven-man highway board, with each member representing a definite section of the state."

"Human nature being what it is, it is nature to a highway board member should try to obtain for his home district a lion's share of the work. This is nature."

"But let's take temptation away from the highway board by adopting a five or seven-man board, each member will be sure his particular area gets a fair share of the work."

"As it is, the Idaho Falls area has been able to snag the bulk of the construction work. I guarantee you, if I was on the highway board, the Twin Falls county would have gotten a lot more construction."

First Steps Taken for Power Plan

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16 (AP)—The first steps in carrying out a $1.5 billion dollar regional power development program in nine western states have been undertaken at an organizational meeting of "West Associates."

W. Reeves, president of Public Service company, New Mexico, and the "West" group, said yesterday that four committees were set up to make preliminary studies leading to the start of actual construction of "the largest regional electrical power development program ever planned."

West Associates is made up of 10 investor-owned utilities, along with the Los Angeles department of water and power. The group said it probably would be expanded to include four or more local government-owned electric power suppliers operating in California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Texas, New Mexico, Wyoming and Idaho.

A six-man management committee, headed by W. R. Gould, vice president of Southern California Edison company, will provide overall direction of the program.

The other committees establish engineering and planning public relations and legal.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY: Higher pressure at the surface is moving into the northern Intermountain region behind the cold front now moving southward. Rain showers in the valleys of southern Idaho were light.

Higher pressure at the surface will bring a clearing trend to southwestern valleys this forenoon and to the southeastern valleys this afternoon and evening. Lowering temperatures with areas of frost and freezing temperatures will result tonight from these conditions.

Some light rain is expected in the valleys of southern Idaho on Sunday. Maximum temperatures today will range from the upper 50s to the low to mid 60s and on Saturday readings will move mostly into the 60s over these valleys. Minimum temperatures tonight will range in the mid 30s to mid 40s with local freezing temperatures in Magic Valley.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST: The mean pressure chart aloft for the next five days shows a low pressure center in the Gulf of Alaska with low pressure extending southward into the Pacific ocean. A westerly flow of air aloft into the northern Intermountain region will persist through much of this period.

Temperatures over the valleys of southern Idaho will average near normal through Wednesday. A warming trend in the beginning of this period will give way to a cooling trend after the first of the week. Cool nights and light temperatures during the week-end are expected with these weather conditions. Normal temperatures for this period are Gooding 64-77; Twin Falls 64-74, and Burley 63-73.

Storm centers from the Pacific will continue to move to the north through California, but trailing fronts the first part of the week will bring showers to the valleys of southern Idaho. Total precipitation during the next five days will be heavier in southwestern valleys with amounts ranging from .10 to .20 of an inch. In the southeastern and northeastern valleys total precipitation amounts will be generally less than .10 of an inch.

Rainfall will average around .20 to .30 per cent of possible. Lighter winds are expected over the week-end with stronger winds accompanying the cold front into the first of the week. Soil temperatures at the three to eight-inch depth will show little change through Wednesday, with readings in the 50s and low 60s.

Forecasting operations for potatoes and beets will have mostly favorable weather to make progress, but periods of unfavorable drying conditions will make bean harvest a marginal operation. Cool night temperatures tonight and into the week-end will necessitate the covering of stockpiled sugar beets. Remaining field work can be accomplished with only slight delay, but heavy showers in southwestern valleys may cause longer delays in that area.

TEMPERATURE AND PRECIPITATION: Highest temperature Thursday, lowest temperature last 12 hours, precipitation for 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. CST.

First Bomb Is Set Off By Red China

Red China is not a signer of limited nuclear test ban treaty, which bans nuclear testing in all areas except below the surface of the earth.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, forecast Sept. 25 that the communist Chinese might soon explode their first test device. He said then:

"For some time it has been known that the Chinese communists were approaching the point where they might be able to conduct their first nuclear test. Such an explosion might occur in the near future."

The Russians extended technical aid to China for a time, then dropped out in the face of difficulties between Peking and Moscow.

The broadcast account said: "The success of China's nuclear test is a major achievement of the Chinese people in the strengthening of their national defense and safeguarding of their motherland, as well as a major contribution made by the Chinese people to the cause of the defense of world peace."

"The success of this test was due to the hard work and the great coordinated effort of China's workers, engineers and technical personnel, scientific personnel engaged in building up China's national defense as well as various regions and departments throughout the country who, upon the occasion of the test, displayed a spirit of relying on their own efforts and making enterprising endeavors."

"The central committee of the Chinese communist party and the state council warmly congratulate them."

corruption and spending. The cold war is the U.S.A. or the A.D.A.," said Stimpson.

The senator pointed out examples of non-essential spending as spending $1,000,000 to research the cause of the death of baby baboon for his mother. Other examples included "the spending of tax money to research the social behavior of rats and the consideration of the cause of the death of a bird in order; social behavior of termites; reaction of birds in certain circumstances and evaluation of the tree frog."

The federal aviation agency has been told and spent money to discover that the average airline passenger has a seat capacity of 279 square inches," the senator declared.

While the comments brought chuckles from the audience, Stimpson said this is "serious business."

Midway through his speech the visitor dug into Congressman Ralph Harding, saying he is one of the most "dangerous" congressmen in Washington.

Stimpson qualified his remarks by referring to Harding's acceptance of funds from the "Council for a Livable World."

Senator Stimpson noted that the communist has its goals "total disarmament to buy of the congress" and he noted that while the council generally supports only Russia, that "an exception being made in the case of the Soviet Union."

Harding ranked second in Washington as a spender and this, too, is "dangerous."

He hit the "council" for its secret membership and methods and asked that "angry young men rise up and take action."

He called President Johnson the "criminal and most arming man to ever occupy the White House."

He read from the morning edition of the Times-News concerning a speech given by Nevada Gov. Grant B. Sawyer on the farm situation and noted "while all this farm progress has been going on the USDA has added another 14,000 people to the payroll; the farm population has declined by two million; farm employment has dropped by 43,000 people."

He said that Sen. Barry Goldwater is going to be elected, and that he is drawing in "immense crowds; that the Jeffersonian Democrats are swinging over to the Arizona senator."

One of Senator Stimpson's favorite targets was vice president Richard Nixon. He said Nixon and his affiliation with the ADA.

"The ADA would have us recognize Red China; ignore the fact that it is a foreign policy." There are still missiles in Cuba, he said.

He spoke of his close friendship with Idaho Senator Len B. Fulk, Thatcher and Mrs. Larry Voss, Thatch.

Discharged: Mrs. Ray T. Blackwood, Dolan; Whitaker and son, Tommie Hostetter, Mrs. Cheryl B. Hostetter, Mrs. Thomas Miller and Mrs. Paul Green, Twin Falls; Mrs. Earl I. Area Woman Is Named to Demo Office

DOISE, Oct. 16 (AP)—Former Boundary county senator Edward B. Middlemist, Boise, and Violet A. Harma, Wendell, President of Gooding county's Democratic women's organization, have been named co-chairmen for a new Idaho group backing President Johnson.

National director David L. Cawston, said the purpose of "Women's support for Johnson-Humphrey" will be to provide the public with information about key issues in the campaign.

Middlemist said plans are being made for appearances by prominent leaders throughout the state. He said distribution of pamphlets and fact sheets on key issues at the precinct level is in progress through efforts of young Democrats and precinct workers.

Middlemist served in the senate from 1949 to 1957. Mrs. Harma also was named to the operation support for Kennedy-Johnson in 1960.

played a part in blasting Khrushchev out of office. By his vitriolic attacks on Red China leaders, Khrushchev apparently had gone beyond the point of no return in his relations with Red China, and the Kremlin may have decided that it was better to prepare for dealing with a Communist China that has a nuclear capability. So Khrushchev had to go.

One by one his aides were being dismissed, informed sources said. Among the first reported to have been fired was his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, who was editor of the government newspaper "Izvestia."

Overnight the world's number one communist faded into obscurity, and at least six other top government officials were reported to have been given the axe along with him.

Editor Pavel Batyukov, editor of the communist party newspaper Pravda, and Mikhail Karlov, chairman of the State Planning Commission, were reported to be among them.

The cleaning out of Khrushchev's lieutenants was undertaken by the country's new leader, Leonid Brezhnev, a communist party chief, and Alexei N. Kosygin, premier.

The successors promised to continue Khrushchev's policies, including peaceful co-existence with the United States, and toward Peking, and a better life at home.

In a call on the Japanese foreign minister in Tokyo Soviet ambassador to Japan Vladimir M. Vinogradov gave assurances of a continuance of the peaceful co-existence program. A Foreign Office spokesman in Tokyo said Vinogradov emphasized that Russia would seek peaceful settlement of international disputes.

The aides being dismissed were paying the price for being too close to Khrushchev leader who lost his job for his role in health and politics, the sources said. At 70, Khrushchev was considered an unsteady hand at the helm of power.

Other Khrushchev cronies reported to have been fired included: Oleg Troynovskiy, Khrushchev's private secretary and adviser on American affairs; Vladimir Lebedev, a former journalist who was chief of the premier's research staff.

Dmitry P. Goryunov, director general of the official Soviet Tass agency since 1958, was reported to have been fired.

Alexander Shilsky, farm expert who accompanied his chief on a trip to the United States.

Area Woman Is Named to Demo Office

DOISE, Oct. 16 (AP)—Former Boundary county senator Edward B. Middlemist, Boise, and Violet A. Harma, Wendell, President of Gooding county's Democratic women's organization, have been named co-chairmen for a new Idaho group backing President Johnson.

National director David L. Cawston, said the purpose of "Women's support for Johnson-Humphrey" will be to provide the public with information about key issues in the campaign.

Middlemist said plans are being made for appearances by prominent leaders throughout the state. He said distribution of pamphlets and fact sheets on key issues at the precinct level is in progress through efforts of young Democrats and precinct workers.

Middlemist served in the senate from 1949 to 1957. Mrs. Harma also was named to the operation support for Kennedy-Johnson in 1960.

Small Girl Is Killed Near McCall

McCALL, Oct. 16 (AP)—A small girl was struck by a car on railroad highway 15 a half mile south of McCall yesterday and became Idaho's 26th victim of the year.

State Policeman Jerry Kling and McCall Police Chief Bill Acker said the child was 4-year-old Chrissy Krahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Krahn, McCall. She was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Kling and Acker said the girl was struck by a car driven by Elma M. Hall, Donnelly. They said the child was running across the highway to her mother and top late tried to head her mother's car to stop.

Coroner Burton Walker said it appeared the innocent would be held. The driver was not cited.

Johnson

I want to say that our hearts go out with the deepest compassion for him and for his wife and six children—they have been in prayer, the President said.

The 46-year-old Jenkins, a top aide to Johnson for 25 years, resigned his post Wednesday night after it was disclosed he had been arrested in Washington twice on morals charges—once in January, 1959, and again on Oct. 7 of this year. At present he is in custody in a Washington hospital under treatment for "extreme fatigue."

Senator Faces Uphill Struggle in Mountain States

By JAMES C. HAPIS
SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 16 (AP)—Barry Goldwater will face an uphill struggle in the six mountain states—and most political barometers indicate he won't make it.

As the campaign enters its final weeks, the polls show Goldwater trailing the President 61-37 percent in Utah, GOP leaders say their own soundings show a closer race.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, a liberal Democrat who is devoting much of his campaign to denouncing Goldwater's foreign and domestic policy statements, is given a lead over Republican challenger Ernest L. Wilkinson, a down-the-line Goldwater backer.

In Nevada, Gov. Grant Sawyer recently predicted that the GOP standard bearer would get less than 25 percent of the popular vote on Nov. 3. He says Goldwater is "forcing" from his camp election against Roland Tamm, former president of Montana State college. Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield also is up for reelection and is an overwhelming favorite to return to the nation's capital for another six years.

Idaho and Wyoming are leaning to Goldwater but the President drew enthusiastic crowds in visits to the two states earlier this week. Wyoming GOP leaders have warned Goldwater that he must campaign in the state if he hopes to maintain his slim lead over the President.

reception given Goldwater during his campaign visit to Salt Lake City last Saturday. The senator drew a large crowd at the airport and along a motorcade route. The famed Mormon Tabernacle was filled to overflowing to hear him speak.

In Nevada, Gov. Grant Sawyer recently predicted that the GOP standard bearer would get less than 25 percent of the popular vote on Nov. 3. He says Goldwater is "forcing" from his camp the "responsible conservative" voters. Democrats outnumber Republicans 2-1 in this state.

While Goldwater appears to be lagging badly in Nevada, the GOP candidate for the senate, Lieut. Gov. Paul Laxalt, is giving incumbent Democrat Howard Cannon a tough battle in his bid for reelection. Laxalt answered charges that he is backing away from his support of Goldwater by claiming that although the skill favors the Arizona senator, he is running an "independent" campaign for the senate seat.

Colorado went for Richard M. Nixon by landslide proportions in 1960 but the tide has swung to the Democrats this year, political analysts say. The GOP applied in hurting Goldwater in Colorado but party officials on both sides believe the race could be close despite polls giving Johnson an overwhelming lead.

Republican Gov. Jeff Love, who backed Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton in the skirmishing for the GOP presidential nomination, has been less than enthusiastic in his support of the Goldwater-Miller ticket.

Johnson and Goldwater both drew enthusiastic crowds in campaign appearances in Montana, but the President is believed to have erased a slim lead Goldwater held in the early stages of the campaign. However, Republican Gov. Tim Babcock, a long-time Goldwater backer, reported ahead in his bid for relection against Roland Tamm, former president of Montana State college. Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield also is up for reelection and is an overwhelming favorite to return to the nation's capital for another six years.

Hurricane Dies Out in Atlantic Sea

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C., Oct. 16 (AP)—Hurricane Isabella lost its punch at sea today and breezed into the North Carolina coast with little apparent effect.

"I think we lucked out," said Col. David Spivey, civil defense director for the area where 200 persons had gathered in emergency shelters to ride out the storm.

The season's ninth tropical twist, boasting 75 mile per hour winds during a meandering course yesterday, decreased in intensity as it neared the coast during the night and early morning. It was only a tropical storm when its "diffuse center" moved inland 20 miles northeast of here before dawn.

The highest winds recorded were 50 miles per hour at Hatteras on the famed Outer Banks.

The Washington weather bureau in an 8 a.m. EDT advisory located "the remains" of Isabella about 50 miles west of Hatteras, moving northward at about 12 miles per hour.

The advisory warned of the possibility of a tornado along the North Carolina coast this morning. Isabella, which once had 125 mile per hour winds, spawned several tornadoes when it passed over southern Florida Wednesday. The storm claimed four lives in Cuba and one in Florida.

Plans Are Canceled by President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—President Johnson, prompted by international developments, canceled plans today to spend the week-end in Texas.

George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said Johnson would make scheduled campaign appearances tonight in Cincinnati and Dayton, O., but would return to the White House, rather than fly to his Texas ranch.

Asked why the President had revised his campaign program, Reedy said: "Obviously, we have a number of important developments."

The change was made on a day when Red China announced its first nuclear explosion, and Johnson met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to discuss the change of government in the Soviet Union.

Johnson has tried to use the replacement of Premier Khrushchev in the top Soviet government and communist party posts as a reason that the voters should return him to the White House.

Tremor Reported
JACKSON, Wyo., Oct. 16 (AP)—The Jackson Hole area was hit with an earth tremor yesterday morning after one rocked the area Wednesday night.

However there was no damage reported from either tremor.

Rangers at Yellowstone national park, 35 miles north of Jackson, said there were no reports of any tremor in the park.

WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Pahaw, a body known there's not much hope for a proposal passed out by a group of liberal house Democrats to discipline any party member who bolts the Johnson-Humphrey ticket. It's intriguing to ponder its possibility, though, because it hits at the main cause of congressional inertia.
This is the ability of a little band of powerful men to control congress because they either head or dominate the committees whose authority is almost absolute. In the house this year, for example, the administration's mediocre bill was shot down by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D., Ark., chairman of the house ways and means committee. The senate's bill can be done on a straight party-line basis without the consent of such senators as Virginia's Harry Byrd, Georgia's Richard Russell, Mississippi's James Eastland and John Stennis, and Arkansas' John McClellan.

JOIN THE ENEMY—These men are what Sen. Joe Clark, D., Pa., derides as "aggressive members" of the senate establishment. Quite oblivious to party loyalty, they team up time and again with conservative Republicans to stall Democratic legislation. The civil rights act was passed, not because the Democrats went along but because the conservative Republicans deserted them.

These are men of considerable, even immense, ability, but they do not chairman committees because of their ability, but because of their seniority. Thus, Byrd runs the finance committee; McClellan, appropriations; Eastland, Judiciary, and Russell, armed services.

PRESSURE TO CONFORM—Ten liberal house Democrats now have suggested a means of getting around the seniority system. They would deprive defectors of their chairmanships and committee posts, thus reducing them to nonentities in a congress where status is everything. In doing so, the liberal group has echoed the demands of Pennsylvania's Clark and New York's Holloman, D. Mead, that the party discipline its members not only for bolting a national ticket but for opposing party policy in congress. Under such a drastic system, every Southerner holding a chairmanship or a committee seat would have been purged during the civil rights debate.

WON'T SACRIFICE POWER—No one in his right mind could conceive of such a thing happening. The leaders of both houses of congress are tough and realistic politicians, and whether Democrats or Republicans, they are not about to go along with any plan to curb their own powers. They would have the support of legislators plying up seniority against the day when a chairmanship beckons.

But the proposal of these 10 house liberals is significant because it reveals that sentiment in congress for congressional reform is not dead. There is still hope for this clutch of long-winded politicians to do a long overdue job of reorganizing against a system which permits a few prejudiced men to decide what is in the public interest.

The house 10 has raised its collective voice. If a few more will stand up and be counted on this side of reform, they can call it an army and start shooting.

SORRY WATCHDOGS
Although the McClellan committee's report did not advise the department of agriculture of its role in permitting promoter Billie Joe Estes to defraud private financial institutions, neither did it deal sternly with the department as it might have done.

Estes' acquisition of cotton allotments by putting up a phony cotton farm on land was illegal. He used his government manipulations to get the department of agriculture was negligent in reporting, as a foundation for the swindles of which he was convicted in Texas courts.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman's assertion that the investigation "clearly establishes that Billie Joe Estes did not succeed in defrauding the government of a dime" is beside the point. He did defraud others because of the administrative failure, or worse, of government officials. Furthermore, the McClellan report held that high department officials should be "firmly, resolutely and decisively" in their treatment of the Estes case after exposures had been made.

It should be noted that in the Estes case, as in the quick-buck promotions of Bobby Baker, secretary of the senate's Democratic majority, the government officials responsible were not only forced to act only after he was accused by others in court actions. Estes' activities in cotton allotments "might very well have still gone unheeded," a Republican minority of the McClellan subcommittee reported, had there not been exposure from the outside.

The long delay in obtaining release of the McClellan report on Estes and the whitewash of the Baker case by the senate rules committee have contributed to public mistrust of administrative and legislative integrity in government.—The Oregonian.

THE VATICAN'S CHANGING TONE
The newspaper pictures of Boston's Cardinal Cushing and Protestant Evangelist Billy Graham have provided a specific human symbol of the changing tone of Vatican attitudes toward the rest of Christianity.

We say "tone," because it appears that the preaching at the second annual conference of the World Council of Churches, Oct. 12-15, was not retreating from the Council of Trent's conclusions about the "heresy" of other religions. But their votes during the past week showed a conciliatory approach toward "separated brethren." They said they did not intend to "redefine" and shared the blame for past divisions. They approved common worship in certain instances. They went so far as to affirm that salvation is possible outside the "visible limits" of the Roman Catholic church.

As in immediate illustration of the new atmosphere, Cardinal Cushing reportedly said he hoped Roman Catholic young people would go and hear Dr. Graham. And Dr. Graham said he felt closer to some Catholic traditions than "with some of the more liberal Protestants."

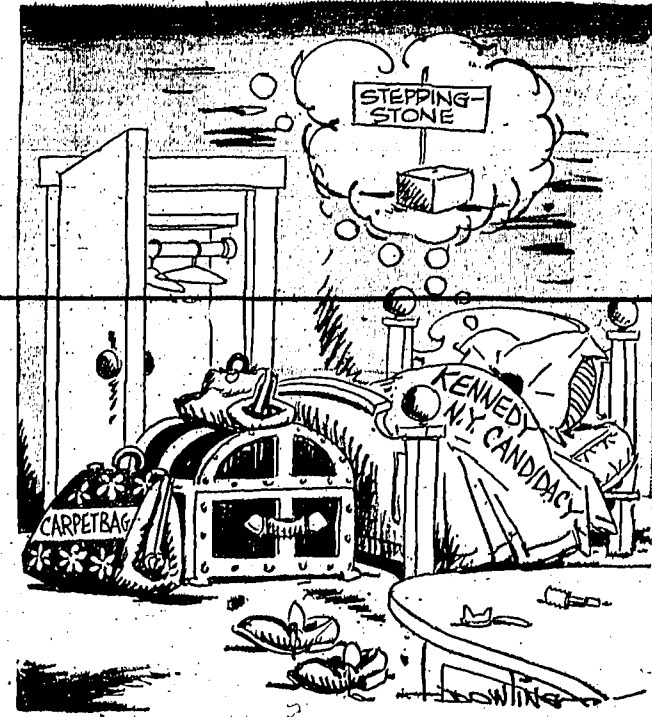

It is encouraging to see men of differing beliefs talking together instead of tightening the tensions of the past. The Vatican Council's decisions could have the result of helping half a billion adherents foster a dialogue that too often has been broken or complicated by suspicion and fear.

No decision by any organization will change the facts of man's relationship to God. But there is no reason why men should not live together in harmony and respect as they work together or separately toward an effective understanding of that relationship.—Christian Science Monitor.

POT SHOTS

MANY THANKS
You kind constituents continue to send "get well" cards. Pot Shots doesn't want to appear unappreciative, but you might say that Pot Shots is a convalescent instead of being ill.

Just as a suggestion, why not watch the hospital admissions and send those cards to people who are ill? We got out the hard way that "get well" cards received while in the hospital can be a big factor in getting well.

On the other hand, there are many things a convalescent can do to pass the time, things like counting the bumps in the plaster on the ceiling, gnawing fingernails or perhaps even dreaming up some new symptoms that might need treating, such as excruciating pain in the third joint of the nose.

Again, thanks to each and every one of you kind constituents who have sent cards during the past six weeks. We've almost got it made now, with only another six months to go. All those people out there in the hospital need your sympathy worse than Pot Shots does. You're all wonderful!

BY LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Pollster Sam Lubell comes up with some answers to the question that probably is keeping Barry M. Goldwater awake at night and uneasy during the election day. The question is this:

"Is there a self-defeating factor in the Goldwater campaign and if so, what is it?"

Lubell has rung button holes and seized door bells in all 50 states of the major party. He believes Goldwater has been shooting at too many targets. The Democratic party is a coalition of many points of view. This political coat of many colors was stitched by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932-33. Lubell found among Democrats who would vote for President Johnson a substantial percentage who liked Goldwater's civil rights stand. But these voters who disagree with Johnson on civil rights are kept within the Democratic coalition by the pull of stronger issues. These other issues vary.

Lubell found there was error in Goldwater's plan of battle. The senator has attacked the Democratic coalition at too many different points to achieve his objective which was to win the coalition apart. The answer Lubell seems to have found to the question raised about Goldwater's campaign is this:

"Yes, there is a self-defeating factor. It is Goldwater's scathing attack on the Kennedy-Johnson administration and on LBJ."

Goldwater's plan of attack has been to chip away at the Democratic political coalition as though it were a huge block of granite to be reduced by countless chisel bites. Lubell found Johnson voters resisting this chip-away process. He implies that Goldwater might have blasted the granite boulder apart by a mighty concentration on some top, perhaps emotional, issue. Race relations obviously would fit that pattern but it did not get such all-out exploitation for a variety of reasons, including Goldwater's disinclination so to use it.

There are other emotional issues. For example: All pollsters have discovered some deep feeling about the Johnson family wealth and how it was accumulated. The Bobby In the scandal and the President's one-time close association with Baker still are begging for Republican exploitation.

Another issue strangely skimmed by the Goldwater-Miller campaign has been the years-expressed or implied-in LBJ's position in such areas as race relations, state's rights and the oil industry's tax depletion allowance.

Overall, Lubell discovered, as have others, that the voters consider themselves confronted with a choice of the lesser of two evils. LBJ is in the comparatively favorable lesser evil position as of two weeks and three days before the election.

It follows that a great many citizens will vote for LBJ with reservations, often substantial reservations. These reservations reflect doubt of Johnson on many counts. But whereas there is widespread doubt about Johnson there is a near-hysterical fear of Barry Goldwater. Women are afraid he might get the United States into a war; that he is trigger-happy. That is the big over-riding issue the Democrats have used as a battering ram to crumble the conservative battlements. Goldwater needs badly a big battering issue against LBJ.

LONDON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Slowly but surely changes are coming in the centuries-old social structure of Britain.
They are occurring under the impact of a post-war population explosion and the demands of expanding industry for more and better trained employees.
The problem is not alone Britain's and the steady expansion of British educational facilities is not unique.
More unique is the system already far advanced by which Britain is moving both its people and industry out of crowded urban areas to the land.

To one fresh from the United States where higher education is a fetish if not always an economic necessity, the expansion of educational facilities seems to follow a pattern all limited by tradition and to be inadequate to meet the need.
But what might well be emulated is the system of new towns, planned from the laying of the first brick to the last lease granted to a merchant in the shopping center.
The expansion of British education has seen since 1945 the construction of more than 6,000

WORLD NEWS

President Johnson repudiated Bobby Kennedy at the national level, outlawing him for vice president. And now, in spite of the President's surface support, Kennedy campaign insiders find evidence that Mr. Johnson wants a Kennedy victory in New York like a pigeon would welcome a leaping puma.
For example, they state that Mr. Kennedy is absolutely unopposed in New York to the Democratic national convention.

Two Wagner opponents in the local legislature—Congressman Adam Clayton Powell and Bronx Assemblyman Charles Buckley—led a pack of other critics in blasting this sad selection of Nelson Rockefeller in the last gubernatorial election.

World War II Italian fascist dictator Benito Mussolini, the officials may decide that this time he would let go way out from in their "We want Bobby" campaign and let them hang themselves in the event of Mr. Kennedy's defeat. In fact, Mr. Kennedy enjoyed their mounting crescendo that he held back a Kennedy endorsement until he was longer than he had planned before the tear and of their cavalcade.

Mr. Kennedy's long and brazen alliance with Powell, the Bronx bathing beaches and out-plying of the most ample frame for his introduction to New York. Neither is he Buckley nor the additional civil service leaders that New York civic leaders have been trying to boot out of power for years on end.

But Mr. Kennedy's ambivalence just go straight up. Ends as in means means and ends. While sentimentality exists, the light of his late and married brother he would not be a shadow. But many a Washington feel that having the White House and power of the White House, Kennedy will be running for President the rest of his life.

However, has he been exploited by miles of his own making, the type of a psychoanalyst and opened the doors and windows that belong his own choice?

What Mr. Kennedy's faces behind the scenes is summarized by a famous remark: Johnson once made in the words of a famous man, "I am a damn." Bobby's defeat would leave both Mr. Wagner and Kennedy nicely in the cabinet, where, each of them has every legitimate right to feel belongs.

The Doctor Says

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Q—What causes a person to have an unpleasant body odor? Is there any cure for it?
A—Body odors are associated with perspiration. There are two types of sweat glands. The large ones found in the armpits and elsewhere are called apocrine glands. These are the ones that give an odor to the sweat. The best treatment for body odor is frequent bathing. Dr. Brandstadt preferably with a soap that contains hexachlorophene.

Q—Deodorant preparations usually contain a mild antiperspirant agent that makes or neutralizes body odors. These deodorants should not be used anywhere except in the armpits because it is dangerous to interfere with perspiration on any great scale. Odors from the armpits are the ones that are most exposed to the surrounding atmosphere.

Q—Can an anxiety neurosis of long standing be cured without the help of a psychiatrist?
A—The cause and severity of anxiety neuroses are varied and so are the results of treatment. The victim must be made to realize that he does not have a serious disease and that his nervous disorder is one from which he can recover. Sedatives or tranquilizers taken for a short time may be helpful. Only the most severe anxiety reactions require psychiatric help and even in these, psychoanalysis is not the type of psychotherapy most authorities recommend.

Q—How can I give my body to science when I die? I do not want to be buried or cremated.
A—There is a rare but laudable request. There is always a shortage of bodies for study in medical schools and there are about 80 such schools in the United States. The American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. 60610 can tell you which one is nearest you. When you have selected one of them you should let either the type of the chair or the department of anatomy know of your intention so that arrangements for embalming and transportation can be made.

Q—I am 60. About eight months ago I fell and fractured my bone in my back. X rays showed my bones to be very brittle. How can my bone structure be built up?
A—Everybody's bones become more brittle as they grow old. Fluoride in the drinking water (at least a pint a day) and cheese are a great help in preserving the strength of your bones. Take every precaution against any more falls.

SOUTH LABORS BRINGS IN SLAM
"I sure wish I hadn't opened this election," said a South laborer as he spread his hand on the table.
South did not answer. He was smart for that. He realized that South was the key, and he had to break 3-3 in order to be in contract to make the South a union of clubs and ruffed another club with his trump.

The queen and Jack of clubs fell nicely, and now only one more bit of careful play was necessary. He drew his trump. This gave up all play for seven. This gave up all play for seven, but it insured all South was delighted to bring home this slam.

CARD SENSE
Q—The bidding has been North-South 1-4. What do you do?
A—Bid three no-trump. You have eight points.

Oregon Town Will Get Rail Line

STAYTON, Ore., Oct. 16 (U)—Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield, the nation's first elected governor to have a railroad, drove home a spike with one blow of a hammer yesterday and signified the coming of the railroad, at last, to this Willamette Valley community.

In a golden spike ceremony reminiscent of a century ago, a new three-mile Southern Pacific line was opened to provide direct rail service to the Stayton-Canning company.

The town of Stayton was pushed by a railroad line, which was built through the Willamette Valley in the 1870s. But local businessmen, led by P. M. Smith, manager of the cannery, have led a 14-year effort to bring the line into town.

Stayton celebrated the arrival of the iron horse in great style yesterday.

After Hatfield surprised railroad men with his hammer accuracy, he turned brimman and waved the first boxcars into the cannery for loading.

The cannery company put up the $225,000 to build the line. It will be operated by Southern Pacific and eventually taken over by the railroad.

Hatfield was asked about his accuracy with the spike hammer, which is heavy but has a very narrow head. He confessed that he had practiced with it Wednesday in his office, trying to hit a penny on the floor. He said he hit the penny.

Greer, chairman of the resolution committee, reported on the Grange resolutions.

Ira Kistler, state deputy, was elected by the Grange to install the new Grange officers at the King Hill Grange hall Oct. 22. Marjorie Grange, Mountain Home, has been invited to attend the joint installation.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Graham and Mrs. Martin Woodward.

News Around Idaho

IDAHO FALLS, Oct. 16 (U)—The director of the atomic energy commission's division of industrial participation said yesterday the future is good for the nuclear energy industry. The director, Ernest T. Whittaker, D.C., gave the keynote address at an opening session of the first Idaho Falls seminar on the industrial uses of the atom. The two-day seminar, which was arranged by the Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce, has attracted top leaders of the AEC, state government officials and industrialists from throughout the country.

REXBURG, Oct. 16 (U)—Twelfth district Judge Willard C. Burton has ordered another separate mental examination for James Thompson, charged with the first degree murder of St. Anthony Police Chief Ken Brower, at the request of the Fremont county prosecuting attorney Keith Jorgensen. Earlier this summer the judge had committed the man to the state hospital south at Blackfoot for a pre-sentence investigation at the request of the defense counsel, Eugene L. Bush, Idaho Falls. The judge noted that hospital with psychiatrists and psychologists had agreed that Thompson was not responsible for his act and that he was mentally incompetent and didn't realize what he was doing.

POCATELLO, Oct. 16 (U)—With district Judge Arthur P. Oliver yesterday sentenced Leo Bartholomew, American Falls, to not less than three years in the Idaho penitentiary on a charge of grand larceny. Bartholomew pleaded guilty to a charge of cattle rustling. He was charged with taking 10 head of cattle belonging to two Power county ranchers.

LAVA HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 16 (U)—A brush and range fire five miles northwest of here was under control yesterday after blackening about 600 acres. Bill Hoover, administrative officer for the U.S. forest service here, said the crew fighting the fire was down to 75 men yesterday. Some 125 men were on the fire line Wednesday as the fire reached its peak. "We're knocking down the hot spots today," he said. "We hope to have all but the mop-up operations finished by today and most of the men off the fire by tonight."

BOISE, Oct. 16 (U)—Engineers and Constructors, Inc., Beaverton, Ore., were announced as apparent low bidder yesterday for a federal project of public works in central Idaho. Work involves grading and construction of drainage structures on 6,285 miles of the Lowman-Stanley road beginning five miles northwest of Stanley. The Oregon firm's offer of $334,160 was the lowest of three bids received.

POCATELLO, Oct. 16 (U)—Pocatello's zoning-planning commission, stymied in dealing with auto salvage operators, will try a unique approach in trying to rid the city's outskirts of thousands of old car bodies. Salvage dealers say it costs them more than the old cars are worth to strip and prepare them for junking. Zoning chairman Boyd Wolfe Wednesday night appointed board members from Day to approach car dealers in the city on a proposal to add $10 to $15 to the cost of new autos to subsidize wrecking yards to dispose of old cars.

POCATELLO, Oct. 16 (U)—Guests are invited to tour the Bannock county nursing home here Tuesday during an open house. The official luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. at the home. Dr. A. T. Wigle, aides of activities for patients, and meetings with personnel from the department of public assistance and Bannock county welfare department. The $450,000, 60-bed nursing home was opened in August of 1963.

WEISER, Oct. 16 (U)—Weiser newspaperman Harry N. Nelson says a Texas firm is interested in building a paper mill at Weiser if a market can be found and developed for sale of newspaper. He said the interest of Southland Paper Mills, Inc., Lufkin, Texas, grew out of the Sept. 28-29 trip of Idaho businessmen and government officials in Houston to seek Texas capital for Idaho investment. Nelson said he went to Lufkin Sept. 29 to talk with executives of Southland, which manufactures newspaper from southern pine.

CALDWELL, Oct. 16 (U)—Rep. Compton T. White, D. Ida., noted the economic strength of the United States as the major issue of the 1964 campaign yesterday in an address at a Kiwanis meeting in Caldwell. The Johnson administration, he declared, has demonstrated its ability to enact legislation designed to assist American business and boost capital investments. White termed the federal income tax reduction act of 1964 as the most significant contribution to the economy. "I believe the proof of the tax reduction bill's effectiveness is evident from the Republican presidential nominee's endorsement of a similar plan," he said.

EMMETT, Oct. 16 (U)—The president of the young Democratic club of Idaho told Gen. county young Democrats last night that President Johnson's Idaho visit has given a "tremendous boost" to the party's campaign. Leo Krullitz, Boise, said Idaho will give the President "a substantial majority," and that Rep. Ralph Harding, D. Ida., has a lead in the second district. But he said all Democrats should work hard until election day.

BOISE, Oct. 16 (U)—Bids for construction of a potato research laboratory near Aberdeen and projects at the University of Idaho and Lava Hot Springs were opened yesterday, but all were too high. Public works commissioner Arthur Warren said all of them exceeded the amounts appropriated by the 1963 legislature for the permanent building fund. But he said additional money may be found for each one. August Mitchell & Numa, contractor, entered the low bid of $349,414 for the potato laboratory, at the university's agricultural experiment station. But with architect's fees it exceeds the $350,000 authorized; $200,000 from the fund, $100,000 from the potato and onion colonization and $50,000 from donations.

BOISE, Oct. 16 (U)—Republican congressional candidate George Hansen continued yesterday his attack on Rep. Ralph Harding, D. Ida., for receiving campaign contributions from members of a group called the Council for a Livable World. "I challenge Ralph Harding to tell the citizens of Idaho why he is receiving financial help from a secret political organization," Hansen told the Boise Rotary club. "Can my opponent be so naive after four years in congress that he doesn't understand that these nameless, faceless contributors referred to him by this organization are a bunch of bomb throwers who want a livable world with communism?" "Democrat Senator Burdick, North Dakota, who had accepted $143,514 from the council for this campaign, returned every cent of it when it was exposed earlier this year," said Hansen.

MCCALL, Oct. 16 (U)—Budget Director Don Y. Walker says the state is using outdated fiscal procedures that need a basic evaluation and overhaul. His comments were made to 130 nurses attending the 53rd annual convention of the Idaho Nurses association. "Idaho's governmental operations are pig business," said Walker. He said the most expensive indulgence "is to maintain the status quo."

BOISE, Oct. 16 (U)—Three Idaho American Legion leaders planned to leave today for a series of meetings in Indianapolis. State Chairman Melvin Alkager, Moscow, and state Adjutant Lou Habb will attend a national boys' and leaders Saturday and Sunday, followed by the annual meeting of commanders and adjutants. Bernard Gratton, Emmett, national executive committee member, is a member of a six-man committee to report to the national committee later in the week on resolutions adopted by the national convention.

Increase in Lead Price Is Reported

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (U)—American Smelting and Refining company today announced an increase for lead of one cent per pound to 15 cents per pound, delivered New York.

ASARCO's move follows close on the heels of a one cent increase in the price of prime western zinc started Wednesday by American Metal Climax, Inc., and expected to be industry-wide by the week-end.

Like the zinc increase, the advance in the lead price was tied to an effort to attract foreign ore and concentrates from the U.S. companies dependent upon foreign raw material sources to attract sufficient supplies.

The 15 cent price for lead is the highest since 1957, when it was quoted at 10 cents per pound.

Wonders

TIVERTON, England, Oct. 16 (U)—School authorities wonder whether inflation hasn't affected the annual annual scramble for pennies in this Devon town. Only 20, instead of the usual 300, children turned up for the recent event.

Damage Is Minor In Buhl Mishaps

BOISE, Oct. 16 (U)—Minor damages were reported when Mrs. Livia Westby, 70, Buhl, driving a 1963 Chevrolet east on Main street in Buhl, swerved to avoid striking a car backing out of a parking space and her car rolled with a properly parked 1957 Chevrolet belonging to Edgar Meyer, route 1, Buhl.

Damages were estimated at $50 to her car and more than $50 on the Meyer vehicle. The mishap occurred at 10 a.m. Thursday.

About $175 in damages were estimated in another accident which was investigated here Monday afternoon, according to Buhl Police Chief Charles Burchell. A 1963 Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Stella Thornberry, 68, Buhl, and a 1951 Chevrolet panel truck driven by Lavar Bloxham, 34, Buhl, collided as Bloxham pulled off Truck Lane onto South Broadway avenue.

Damages were set at $75 to the panel and $100 to the car.

U.S. Embassy Denies Part In Revolt

BAIGON, South Viet Nam, Oct. 16 (AP) — The U.S. embassy here today denied a report it had encouraged the attempted military revolt last month against Prime Minister Nguyen Khanh.

The military coup Sept. 13 was crushed with the arrests of three South Vietnamese army generals and 17 army officers and civilians. Their mass trial opened yesterday in the Palace of Justice.

One defendant, Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, was reported to have testified he was encouraged by the U.S. Ambassador, U.S. Army Lt. Col. John J. Johnson, to lead the revolt, however, was questioned by most newsmen covering the trial and denied by the U.S. embassy.

An embassy spokesman said its observer at the trial was not aware Phat made such a remark. Newsmen said they understood Johnson merely asked Phat to avoid bloodshed. An official transcript of Phat's testimony was not available immediately.

Penitentiary Site Boosted For Jerome

JEROME, Oct. 16 — Jerome county commissioners went on record favoring Jerome county as a site for the new state penitentiary at their regular monthly meeting this week.

The commissioners raised the county participation in the department of public assistance from $25 to $50 for October, November and December.

Withard Lattimer, chairman, stated that funds were moved from the hospital portion of the budget to the nursing home for this three month period since no extra money had been allocated in this year's budget for the nursing home.

Earl Greenawald, Jerome mayor, and William Dermott, city engineer, requested county support for maintenance of the city dump grounds. This matter was taken under advisement by the commissioners.

Commissioners appointed Mrs. Kenneth Beem and Mrs. Edith Thompson as new election judges for the Fall City precinct. Mrs. Marshall Stehr was appointed for the Southwest precinct and Mrs. Ed Moeller was appointed for the Northwest precinct.

Strong U.S. Government Is Necessary

JEROME, Oct. 16 — A strong federal government is required to protect America's freedom, Rep. Ralph Harding, D., told members of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at Wood's cafe.

"Those people who promote the idea that a weak federal government would be successful in our battle with international communism are doing this nation a great disservice," Harding said. Harding said these persons who promote distrust and hatred of the federal government are "striking damaging blows at democracy."

"The lower the reputation of our citizens, the less chance we have of attracting outstanding citizens to public service," Harding said. He called on chamber members to follow the issues of the 1964 campaign closely and cast an informed vote.

Today We Honor Your Newspaperboy

The millions of dollars spent every day gathering the news and publishing newspapers would be largely wasted if it were not for that vital link between the press room and your living room—the young man who delivers the paper to your doorstep—rain or shine.

* IT'S NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

—an appropriate time to join us in expressing appreciation to your newspaperboy for the job he is doing.

This young businessman has a part time job, with full time rewards, that pays off now—and in adult life. He operates his own profitable business, the only one that makes him salesman as well as purchasing agent; delivery man and collector; that gives him a real insight into human nature.

Under the guidance of men who are interested in and trained to inspire boys, he is getting some of the most important training of his entire life.

Many of today's outstanding citizens were yesterday's newspaperboys. Who knows, maybe someday you might even say, (with just a tinge of name-dropping), "I knew him when..."

Businesses

Sold Ketchum
The purchase of two of Ketchum's businesses was reported at the meeting of the Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Pro. Sturtevant told the board she and her husband had purchased and taken possession of the Sun Valley store on the Sun Valley road. They have changed the name of the store to "Sturtevant's Sun Valley."

Mr. Allen Evans announced the purchase of the Spur building at present the existing building is being sold. Mrs. Evans said she will operate the theater but may sell it for that purpose.

Mr. Sturtevant, temporary manager, read a letter from the Sun Valley club. The club would like to hold the annual get-together in the Sun Valley next summer and bring 400 trailers, with some of the persons.

The meeting was held at the North Fork store. If the facilities cannot be provided for the next year's meeting would affect their own power and supply other facilities.

Members voted to again sponsor a Christmas tree lighting. Mr. Miller, who conducted the meeting in the absence of Mr. Sturtevant, said that the committee working on the program was not a children's parade in the Sun Valley, with children furnishing special.

He reported the Rotary is sponsoring a benefit for Leon Hoffman, the boy who will undergo heart surgery in a Salt Lake hospital.

The dance will be held in the OP hall and Hap Miller and orchestra will donate music. Those wishing to donate door prizes are asked to leave them at the door.

RUNNING THE SOVIET Union in tandem are Alex Kasygin, 60, left, and Leonid Brezhnev, 57. They were named, respectively, to be premier of the Soviet Union and secretary of the communist party Thursday night. Here they clasp hands as they raise their arms during an appearance at Moscow's Sports palace in 1960. They took over the posts that Nikita Khrushchev had held until his resignation. Brezhnev's post as party secretary is the one that both Stalin and Khrushchev used to control the Soviet Union. (AP wirephoto)

REMEMBER WHEN?

By BOB REESE
He was the most beloved American humorist of this century... the homespun philosopher whose warmth and wit had won him a permanent place in America's heart. He was a star of stage and screen, and a newspaper columnist read by millions. His name was Will Rogers.

Just that August day the smiling comedian took off in a plane flown by a man almost equally famous, the pilot with the familiar eye patch, Wiley Post, one of the pioneers of aviation. And then the wild country of the frozen north, tragedy struck. Both Rogers and Post were killed.

It was a moment of national mourning, for in the troubled times of those years the unruly hair, twinkling eyes and broad grin of Will Rogers, actor and comic, had endeared him to millions. He would be sorely missed.

Remember the year? Those were days when smiles were sometimes scarce... and so were dollars. Any man who bought a car then shopped for a dealer who would give him the best buy.

The year was 1935. These are better days... but it still pays to shop for the best buy in a new car... We'll save you money on a brand-new '65 Dodge, Chrysler or Imperial. And you'll have the added security of buying from an established, reliable dealer, at Bob Reese Motor Co., 300 Black 2nd Ave. So, Twin Falls, phone 733-5776.

Depth of Understanding Aided by Speed Reading

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

Time your reading of this column and compare your speed with that indicated at the end. The expected speed assumes a daily five per cent improvement.

When the editors of "Who's Who" one day consider you for their pages, don't worry that your awful secret of being a word-by-word reader will be revealed.

But read without understanding just one day this week, and everyone around you in class will know it and it will show up on your report card. However, don't make the mistake of thinking that all you need is understanding and that understanding means slow down. That's wrong. We'll show you in eight steps how to get speed into your reading and at the same time increase the amount and depth of your understanding.

There are eight simple steps, and each of the next eight columns will cover one of the steps fully.

1. CONCENTRATE. It's not bad manners to stare at a page and get nothing, but it is a waste of time. The reader who keeps going back to the same old paragraph in English literature because he's afraid he missed something sure did. He missed concentration. Why? He's not personally involved with the reading; he does not know what is in it for him. No motivation, no concentration. How does one get motivation? We'll show you how in the next article.

2. PRE-READ. Take that assigned reading you hate most. Now try this out for a first test. Read the title page. The title tells you something; the sub-title tells you more; the author is probably identified, so you know more. Next read the table of contents. You're at least discovering where you're supposed to be going. Now read the first two paragraphs of the preface and the last two. Stop—if you've learned something (and you have because you've picked up a sense of direction), you're ahead. If you have some questions, you're ahead again because you have to have questions to get answers. In our fourth article, we'll develop this technique fully.

3. QUIZ YOURSELF. This naturally follows on pre-reading. You'll learn how to ask yourself and the book the right questions so as to get the right answers.

4. READ IN PHRASES. We're going to overcome word-by-word-reading-overnight. When we get to this article, we'll have drills, but you should be able to overcome plodding reading even before then. Make a hole through that circle above and have someone count the eye fixations as you read. Divide the number of words you've read by the number of fixations, and you know where you stand right now.

5. DRILL FOR FASTER READING. Once you start to read in phrases, then we really move — not just across a line but down the page. We have some practice drills which are fun to work with as you really pick up speed—and understanding—from a larger eye span.

6. SKIPPING AND SKIMMING. One of the smartest

22 Dentists Study Recent Discoveries

POCATELLO, Oct. 16—Twenty-two area dentists gathered at Idaho State University last week for the second in a series of post-graduate courses in various phases of dental science.

Designed to keep dentists up to date on new practices and materials, the series is sponsored by the continuing education committee of the Idaho Dental Association. The current series includes three courses.

Teaching last week's two-day course on full dentures was Dr. Earl Pound, Los Angeles, Calif. Covered in the course were patient management, immediate dentures, chronic full denture problems, general considerations such as occlusal plane and tooth arrangement and preservation of natural teeth.

The series opened in September with a one-day course in powdered gold for restoration and new casting and investment techniques taught by Dr. Mack Baum, Loma Linda university school of dentistry, Calif.

Dental hygienists and assistants as well as dentists will attend the course in preventive dentistry scheduled for Dec. 14 and 15 at ISU. This course will be taught by Dr. Sumner Armin.

Taking the course in full dentures were dentists from Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Shelley, Montpelier, Blackfoot, Burley, Twin Falls, Rupert, and Mountain Home. This course is being repeated this week in Boise.

things you'll earn is what NOT to read. We'll show you how to determine that; then we'll show you the best way of skimming through what you should read—and get all you want out of it.

7. BUILD WORD POWER. Besides your trusty dictionary, there are plenty of everyday ways of increasing your vocabulary. We'll take words you know, your daily contacts, this newspaper and show you the easy way to a rich vocabulary.

8. PACE YOURSELF. By the time you get to the column on pacing, you'll be a veteran speedy reader who gets full understanding from reading. Pacing will show you how to regulate your speed for different kinds of reading.

(You should have completed this reading in 100 seconds.)

Another World Record Is Topped; United States Get 4 More Gold Medals

TOKYO, Oct. 16 (AP)—Sharon Stouder, 15-year-old schoolgirl from Glendora, Calif., smashed another world record, collected her third Olympic medal and led the United States forces through another day of highly-productive competition in the Olympic Games today. The United States added four gold medals and eight over-all to its growing collection of Olympic hardware and now leads with 42—

The recently concluded Idaho open golf tournament might have heralded a new golf era into the state, thanks to several people, but Bud Courley, alias Cactus Pete, specifically.

Through the Cactus Pete sponsorship, the open reached its apex in prize money and field.

In the past the open, of necessity, had to be a rather small affair because prize money was not available. The open has been blessed with some fine competitors, a name prominently recalled being Tony Lema who won here in 1958 before going on to national and international fame.

With the added prize list, the open picked up several new faces from farther places. And many of the visiting pros noted that the competitors in their particular area would be coming to Twin Falls if the open is repeated next year.

Courley, who now must sit back and decide whether the publicity and other intangibles made the effort worthwhile, discussed his future participation quite frankly.

He feels if such a program is to succeed it must be built rather slowly but solidly. To suddenly build the prize money to 10 or 15 thousand dollars on a more or less trial basis might be good for a year or two but if cut back, it would hurt the open's future.

By starting in a comparatively small way, however, the foundation would be built locally and by word of mouth in the surrounding areas.

The prospect for a growing open can only bring smiles to the faces of local golf aficionados.

An increase to about $10,000 or $15,000 would insure the open of the indefinable "second line" touring pro who must qualify at every big event and actually leaves his game on the course Monday and Tuesday just striving for the right to tee it up Thursday with the Palmers and McQuires.

These possibly future stars have to have a payday once in a while and a $2,000 top prize would attract their attention. We are thinking of a "Cactus Pete" like Babe Hakey, who was to play here this year but had to withdraw at the last moment.

19 gold, 11 silver and 12 bronze. Russia has 27—9 gold, 7 silver and 11 bronze. The other U.S. gold medal winners were hurdler Rex

Cawley, who was so excited he forgot the pain in his leg; Wynona Tyus, a world record holder who was supposed to win, and the men's 400-meter medley relay swimming team.

But the star of the show was the impatient Miss Stouder, a 5-foot, 8-inch blonde who attends Glendora high school.

She swept to a world record time of 1:04.7 in the women's 100-meter butterfly final and notched her second gold medal of the games. She also swam a winning relay team, became only the second woman to break 60 seconds in the 100-meter freestyle when she finished second to Australia's incomparable Dawn Fraser in that event, and has a chance for a fourth medal as a member of the favored U.S. 400-meter medley relay team.

The men's 400-meter medley relay team, composed of Thompson Mann, Chesapeake, Va.; Bill Craig, Glendale, Calif.; Fred Schmidt, Northbrook, Ill.; and Steve Clark, Los Altos, Calif., also broke the world record, winning in 3:58.4 before a packed house that included Emperor Hirohito.

In all, nine world swimming records have been broken and one of the powerful U.S. swimming team has collected 24 medals, including 11 gold.

Cawley, a 24-year-old graduate student at Southern California, finally found his form and pulled away from the opposition, marking the sixth straight time an American has won the event.

Miss Tyus, who had matched the world record of 1:12 in the qualifying rounds of the women's 100-meter dash yesterday, took the final by about two yards over her Tennessee State teammate, Edith McGuire. Miss McGuire has been favored.

While the track and field and swimming teams moved merrily along, however, the unbenighted American basketball team had a pulled hamstring during a game, and the sport was introduced to the Games in 1936, appeared to be feeling the pressure of the 42-game winning effort, pulling out a 69-61 decision over Yugoslavia.

Pain Hampers Oerter in Record Toss

TOKYO, Oct. 16 (AP)—"Every time I throw, it felt like somebody was wrenching in and trying to tear my ribs out with their bare hands," Al Oerter said Thursday after making it three straight gold medals and three straight games records in the Olympic discus throw.

"I hurt so badly earlier this week I started to pull out, and then I said to myself, 'These are the Olympics, and I decided to gut it through.'"

With a tremendous heave on his next-to-last toss, he beat out the world record-holder, Ludvik Danek, Czechoslovakia, and teammate Dave Weil, Walnut Creek, Calif., who had to settle for the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

Only one other discus thrower in history—M. J. Sheridan, 1904-06-08—ever won three straight Olympic golds, and the second of these was regarded as unofficial.

At 27, Oerter is not even thinking of retiring.

"I intend to go for a fourth medal—I don't care what color it is," he said. "I don't know about 1972. When I won my first at Melbourne, I said I wanted five."

With three throws to go, Oerter trailed Danek in the competition.

Then I mapped out a campaign for the three-throw, the powerful New Yorker said.

"On my fourth throw, I found the right technique but I didn't get the discus high enough."

"I decided on the fifth throw I would spin slowly, use an easy turn and hit it high. Then, if I still didn't do it, I would pull hard with my left arm and throw everything into the last throw."

On the fifth throw, Oerter hit his record mark, Danek's last toss failed to match it.

"You still have another throw, Mr. Oerter," the official said.

"Thanks, you can take it," Oerter replied, winning with pain.

Lex was third behind Hungary's Tassio Hammer. Winger scored 597 of a possible 600 and Pool 596.

Other track winners included world record-holder Peter Snell, New Zealand, in the 800 meters, defending champion Jozsef Schmidt, Poland, in the triple jump and Mihaila Penas, Romania, in the women's javelin. The United States was blanked in all three.

Snell won in 1:45.1, Schmidt with a leap of 55-3 1/2 and Miss Penas with a throw of 108-7 1/2.

Ironically, Russia's Elena Gorbachova, a world record of 204-8 1/2 in the preliminaries, but it didn't count toward the final placings and she ended up in third.

In other competition, the U.S. placed Bill Dillinger, Springfield, Ore., and Bob Schul, West Milton, Ohio, in the finals of the 5,000-meter run; three U.S. sprinters went through two rounds of the meter dash eliminations; Carl Robie, Drexel Hill, Pa., failed to an Olympic record 2:10 flat and led a three-man advance through the 20-meter butterfly heats and the U.S. women's 400-meter medley relay team made it into the finals.

Sikes Takes Big Lead in Sahara Open

LAS VEGAS, Oct. 16 (AP)—The proverbial dark horse, this time a young man named Dick Sikes, led the way into the second round Friday of the $70,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament, overshadowing, at least for the moment, the more renowned professionals in the trade.

The 24-year-old Sikes, who won the national public links championship twice—in 1961 and 1962—and the national collegiate title for Arkansas in 1963, literally tore up the Paradise Valley Country Club in the first round Thursday with a nine-under par 62.

That happened to be a course record. The old record was 64, set last year by Bob Harrison.

The course measures 7,000 yards and has a par of 36-35-71. As played, Sikes was three strokes back of Sikes, and the open champion Ken Venturi was in another lengthy string of men at 71.

Looking back at a year, Nicklaus was 75 at this stage, when Al Gebelers led with 67. So Nicklaus, who holds no major titles this year but still ranks only about $3,000 behind Palmer in the money-winning battle, is in the same position he was in a year ago.

Gebelers, incidentally, was among the 68 shooters and thus far in 1963-64 has yet to be over par in the tournament.

Declo Drops Oakley To Take League Lead

BURLEY, Oct. 15—Declo's Mike Mathews sprinted 88 yards on a punt return early in the game and the Hornets went on to defeat Oakley 18-0 and claim sole possession of the Magic Valley conference league Thursday night. Mathews' punt returns kept Declo in solid position throughout the first half and Oakley was continually with it back to the wall. In the second half Declo sputtered in a spread formation but Oakley couldn't mount a sustained attack. Declo did push in a touch-down late in the fourth quarter.

Mathews' long punt return was easy after the first few steps. He shook loose from the first man and then sprinted easily down the sideline behind a solid blocking wall set up by his teammates.

Declo made three more serious threats in the half, moving to the two-yard line before being stopped on four plays, again to the 15 where a fourth down play was stopped inches from the first down and later on a Mathews pass interception that took

Yankees Are Gracious in Series Loss

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16 (AP)—The New York Yankees, losers in the world series, met the press like winners Thursday and talked of mistakes, breaks, and Bob Gibson.

"Gibson surprised us with his stamina," said Manager Yogi Berra in the clubhouse after the Yankees lost 7-5 in the seventh game. "He had that good fast ball."

But Berra thought his sluggers were beginning to catch up with the fireballing right-hander, who beat them 5-3 in 10 innings Monday.

"That big lead helped him," Berra told reporters as he sat on a stool, half dressed, smiling through his disappointment. "I don't think he would have finished the game without it. If Richardson gets on in the ninth, with Maris and Mantle coming up, I think he would have been taken out."

But other things contributed to the Yankees' defeat. Berra pointed to a wild throw by shortstop Lina that let in the first Cardinal run in a three-run fourth inning as the key play.

"Lina covered first base, and the ball hit him," Berra said. "It could have happened to anybody."

"No, the runner coming from first base didn't bother me," Lina said. "It was just a bad throw."

Met Stottlemyre, a right-hander, covered first base and threw the ball to Lina and had to dive for the ball.

"He hurt his left shoulder diving for the ball," Berra said. Stottlemyre, trailing only 1-0 after the error, said the shoulder began getting stiff and hampered his delivery.

"I probably would have been able to stay in otherwise," he said. "I felt as strong as any other pitcher."

Another mistake and had break came in the same fourth inning when the Cardinals executed a double steal for their second run.

"I didn't see Tim McCarver break to the plate," said Yankees second baseman Bobby Richardson, whose return throw bounced in front of the plate. McCarver said in safe.

"If I'd seen him, I would have moved in 10 feet in front of second base and got him by 10 feet."

"It seemed like everything went wrong," said slugging star Mantle. "I think we could have played better than we did. But I don't want to take anything away from the Cardinals. They're a fine ball club."

Atlanta Offers 25-Year Lease On Stadium; Braves Undecided

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 16 (AP)—Atlanta officials have offered the Milwaukee Braves a 25-year lease on the Southern city's new 18-million-dollar Civic stadium. Braves board chairman William C. Bartholomay said Thursday night. "Whatever term goes there is going for a long time," he said. But the Braves have no firm offer for a broadcast package from potential sponsors, and widely

Old Hat Is Contender for Mare of Year

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 16 (AP)—Stanley Conrad's Old Hat scored a one-length victory Thursday in the $50,000 Spinster stakes, boosting her contention for handicapper's mare-of-the-year honors.

Jockey Don Brumfield, Keeneland's leading rider, held the 5-year-old mare slightly off the pace until the turn for home, then gave her the nod that she needed.

Mrs. Cavendish, a contender for national filly honors, finished second, a neck in front of Greenrocks Stable's Time for Bed. John R. Gaines' Old Royalty was fourth and Bismarck Farm's Road to Romance was last.

Old Hat was timed for 1 1/4 miles in 1:46 2/5, one second slower than the track record held by Round Table.

Old Hat, second choice in the betting by a whisker, paid $4.80, $2.20 and $2.20. Mrs. Cavendish, as favorite, paid $2.20, and $2.20 and Time for Bed returned $2.20.

Idaho Faces Tough Task Against OSU

COVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 16 (AP)—Idaho has produced a total of only eight points in its last two games, and will have a tough time improving that record on Saturday.

Its opponent is Oregon State, which has allowed each of its four foes only one touchdown in compiling a 3-1 record and emerged as a Rose Bowl contender.

What gives Idaho hope, however, is Oregon State's own difficulty in crossing the goal line. OSU has produced only four touchdowns this season, and was saved in victories over Baylor and Washington by placekicker Steve Clark.

Even OSU has a potentially high-scoring team built around sophomore quarterback Paul Brothers. A shifty runner and hard passer, Brothers has been getting better each week, and is ahead of the first-year pace set by former All-American Terry Baker in total offense.

Pass defense has been an OSU strong point. If should not suffer against Idaho. Quarterback Mike Monahan has completed only 25 of 70 attempts this season.

Trouble could come, however, from halfback Rich Naccarato, the team's leading ground-gainer, and sophomore fullback Ray McDonald.

Regarded as an outstanding prospect at 6 feet, 4 inches and 250 pounds, McDonald was injured until last week. Then, he gained 46 yards in the 14-8 loss to Oregon.

Idaho's success in holding Oregon's Bob Berry to one touchdown has been a hint of the defense OSU may have to contend with.

Idaho Frosh Open Season Against BJC

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Oct. 16—Idaho's Gridiron freshmen open their 1964 season Saturday night when they tackle the once-beaten Boise Junior college Broncos in Boise.

Coach Bud Riley has named a starting lineup he hopes will go both ways against the Broncos. "We are not ready to playon this early in our season," Riley said. "If we have any specialists they will show up during the course of the season, but right now I've got 11 two-way football players."

Three Boise valley prep aces will be in that starting lineup Saturday night as the Vandals go for their second straight winning season under Riley. Paul Gentle from Boise high will be at quarterback for the Vandals, and teammate Mike Wootick will be at one end. Steve Ulrich from Nampa will handle the center chores.

The rest of the lineup includes Pat Davidson at wingback and Dennis McCanna at halfback, both former Gonzaga prep backs from Spokane. Mike Woolrick from Imperial Beach, Calif., will be at fullback.

Larry Sancheli from Lewis and Clark in Spokane will be at the other end. Tackles are Steve Snyder from Lima, Ohio, and James Evans from Baker, Ore. The guards are Lyle Berstrom from Sandpoint, and Karl Klenk from Twin Falls.

million-plus records of the mid 1950s, and it couldn't come out ahead with one million in attendance and run a contending club.

Bartholomay made his remarks by telephone from Chicago, where a number of the directors were examining the specimen contract the board chairman brought back from Atlanta.

Bartholomay said that the ownership group was convinced that an attendance of one million per season was the maximum potential for Milwaukee at this time, despite the club's two circulated reports of a 7.5-million-dollar, five-year offer "is wild," Bartholomay added. The Atlanta proposals, outlined Wednesday at a news conference in the office of Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen, Jr., will be put before the Braves' board meeting next week along with Milwaukee's proposal for increasing the National league club's revenues by about $250,000 annually if it decides to stay in Milwaukee, he added.

The Braves board is made up of 22 members, but the six young members of the original syndicate that bought 99 per cent of the club's stock from Lou Perini two years ago will control the decision on whether to stay or try to move.

If the decision is to move, the Milwaukee county corporation counsel's office is prepared to file legal action alleging breach of contract "any day, at any time, within an hour," at the direction of the county board, which leased Milwaukee county stadium to the club for a three-year period extending through next year.

Assistant corporate counsel George Rice said the initial suit would deal with the contract, but that "we have a number of other actions prepared."

He declined to discuss details. However, Rep. Henry Reuss, D., Wis., disclosed last week, in a letter to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, an American law library section study prepared for him at the library of congress. The study said, in part, that Milwaukee "would have a cause for action against a third party who intentionally and without justification induced the Braves to break the contract."

Reuss told Frick that he believes Milwaukee is "able and I believe ready to bring legal action against Atlanta, and against every member of the major leagues voting for the unrequited transfer."

Bartholomay said that the ownership group was convinced that an attendance of one million per season was the maximum potential for Milwaukee at this time, despite the club's two

Breedlove Unhurt In Crash After Passing 500 Mark

HONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Oct. 16 (AP)—"I'm all right baby, what's the speed?" That's how Craig Breedlove greeted rescuers after he had gone faster on wheels than anyone ever had before, then sped spectacularly out of control for eight miles, landing in 18 feet of water. He swam 15 feet to safety. "I kissed him goodbye," said an associate. "My heart dropped to my stomach."

Ducks Credit Last Eight Tilts to Berry

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 16 (AP)—Bob Berry may not rise as well or throw as far as some other college football quarterbacks, but the University of Oregon wins games with him and that's all that matters.

Berry, who ranks second among life nation's total offense leaders this season with 700 yards in four games, has guided Oregon to victory in its last eight games.

Oregon coach Len Casanova, who has been schooling quarterbacks for 19 seasons, says Berry is the best he has ever coached. George Shaw, the former professional quarterback, also played for Casanova.

"Berry's got real quick wrists and quick hands in getting rid of the ball," Casanova said. "He doesn't have to wind up. He picks his receivers and gets rid of the ball fast. And he can roll to his left, which is a handicap for some."

Berry, at 5 feet, 11 inches, makes up for his lack of height with quickness.

Minnesota of the National Football league and Denver of the American league have professional rights to Berry, who was taken as a future draft choice last year.

But Berry isn't thinking about pro ball right now, nor does he pay any attention to his statistics.

"I'd rather try to win games than worry about that," he said. "You could get 400 yards every game and not win."

Stuart Defeats O'Leary by 20-12

Robert Stuart junior high school posted its first football victory over O'Leary Thursday night when the Stuart eighth graders picked up a 20-12 decision.

Walt Myczkowski got O'Leary off to a fast start, rambling 65 yards on the first play but Stuart replied two plays later with a 67-yard reverse scamper by Jeff Youitz.

Tailback Rick Skeen ripped off tackle and went 45 yards for the first touchdown. Stuart's Stuart and Kelly Qualls got his Floyd Evans slashed off tackle, second point-after. Myczkowski Breedlove must also have set some kind of record for a high-speed accident.

Coming out of the record run and going well over 500 miles per hour, the 28-year-old Los Angeles driver released one of the parachutes that are supposed to help stop his 38-foot car.

"It ripped to shreds, I was going so fast," he said. "I coasted a couple of miles before trying the second chute, but it was still too fast. It also ripped to shreds."

He next tried the brakes, but they failed too.

Breedlove estimated he was still going 350 miles an hour when he left the end of the 10-mile track, five miles from where he tried the first parachute.

"I thought I was dead," he said later.

The car went another three miles, hit two telephone poles, "making match sticks out of one," said Breedlove, skidded sideways into a dike, flipped 30 feet in the air, and came down in 18 feet of water.

It was the fourth time in less than two weeks that the land speed record has been broken, and the third time in two years by Breedlove.

Breedlove wanted to be the first to go faster than 500 miles per hour, a speed some drivers thought impossible.

Breedlove says he's satisfied now. He plans to spend the rest of his record time at the Salt Flats until Oct. 26 breaking less spectacular records, such as the acceleration mark.

The extent of damage to the Spirit of America was not known, but Breedlove thought it could be repaired.

He pulled O'Leary within two points on a three-yard plunge.

It stayed 14-12 until the last play of the game when Stuart's Stuart and Kelly Qualls got his Floyd Evans slashed off tackle, second point-after. Myczkowski Little farmer, in a Salt Lake City hospital, is recovering from heart surgery. He has been unable to farm this year and Jim Reed has been operating his place.

James Alexander, Marley area farmer, has sold his 250 head of sheep after 15 years in the business. Coyotes are the cause of the loss. He had lost between 25 and 50 lambs and full grown sheep this year. His farm land borders rock and brush land where many coyotes den. Alexander's sheep were trucked to Twin Falls, then shipped by train to Idaho Falls. An Iowa stockman owned the sheep.

County conservation workers and farmers viewed the laying of an underground pipeline located on the Ray Zollinger farm at Springdale, near Burley, during an agricultural conservation tour last week. This pipeline was installed to obtain better water conservation and distribution.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Drage, Carey farmers, are building a new milking cooler.

The Harvey Packer ranch, near Carey, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pack. Intensive work of leveling and clearing is already in progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clarke have bought and moved a house from the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sanderson, southeast of Hansen, to their farm, one mile north of Hansen. It has been placed up on the south side of the house of Clarke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Clarke, who have their home facing the road.

Orland Blair, north Shoshone, has finished helping farmers in northwest Shoshone, northeast Shoshone and Dietrich in filling their corn silage pits for fall.

Next harvest has commenced and Karl Anderson, Nick Robinson and Ellen Thompson will work at the best dump ground east of Hansen Ferry. Farmers who started their harvest are Elbert Lawrence and son, north of King Hill, and other farmers will commence work at Pasadena valley.

Harvey Wood is one of the first Gooding area farmers to complete his bean harvest. He reports an average of 25 sacks per acre on 35 acres, with one field yielding 28 sacks per acre. He planted a new strain Great Northern 1140, which he has raised for the last two years. Wood is seeding his Gaines wheat now.

New Record Set in Idaho Grassman of Year Contest

BOISE, Oct. 16—Thirty-three counties, a new record total, have nominated candidates for Idaho Grassman-of-the-Year contest. The contest is being held by the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the contest.

Four finalists, each representing a geographical district, will be selected late in October. The state winner will be announced Nov. 9 at the annual meeting of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce here. The four district winners will be guests at that occasion. The current grassman is Gwinn Rice, Hill City. This is the 14th year of the program.

Judging will be done by a group of technicians in agriculture from several governmental agencies concerned with development of grass farming. Howard Roylance, University of Idaho extension agronomist, is chairman.

The county winners are: Clifford Koppinger, Indian Valley; Adams; Merlin Bastion, Arimo; Bannock; Eugene Hall, Geneva; Bear Lake; Richard Lawson, Teton; Benewah; Joe Dygart, Blackfoot; Blingham; Thomas William Cloughston, Bellevue; Blaine; Ohet Van Stone, Hope; Bonner; Warren Rockwood and Sons, Teton; Bonanza; Rodney Pearson, McCall; Butte; Jack Gibbs, Grace, Coeur d'Alene; Vard Chabourn, Albion, Cassia.

Howard Fredericksen, Kilgore, Clark; Frank Larson, Walpole, Clearwater; S. M. Dowton, May, Ouster; Theo Smith, Preston, Franklin; James Nedrow, Ashton, Fremont; Bert and Wayne McLinn, Emmet, Gem; W. Oren and Sons, Penn, Idaho; James M. Grant, Eden, Jerome; Lloyd McCachran, Post Falls, Kootenai; Jerry Comstock, Potlatch, Latah; Robert Adams, Lendore, Lemhi.

Franklin Eggers, Nezperce; Lewis; Francis Stimpson, Shoshone, Lincoln; J. Ross Byrne, Thornton, Madison; Joseph C. Flood, Rupert, Minidoka; Graydon Storey, Caldwell, Nez Perce; Don and Gene Davis, Bruneau, Owyhee; Harry Stark, Payette; Percy L. Stott, Felt, Teton; Glen Briggs, Murtaugh, Twin Falls; Tom Fleming, Donnelly, Valley; and Seth Moser, Welter, Washington.

Many pheasants and ducks have fallen prey to coyotes, and some of feathers are seen along ditches or in farm fields.

SCS School Attracts 2 Technicians

Two area soil conservation service technicians are attending a special two-week training school at San Luis Obispo, Calif. The course will conclude this week-end, announces Forest Closser, area conservationist.

The two technicians are Dale Schlader, Jerome, and Dennis Froeming, Twin Falls. According to Closser the course of study covers a variety of subjects, all related to soil and water conservation. The two men put in a full, eight-hour day in the classroom and evenings are reserved for study.

The program is designed to improve the service and technical training now offered by the soil conservation service.

Closser noted that the area, when possible, likes to qualify as many technicians as possible.

U.S. Reports Farmers Are Holding Crop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The government's grain market news summary for the week ended Oct. 8 indicates that wheat farmers are holding this fall-harvested grain for better prices.

Winter wheat closed unchanged to three cents per bushel higher, reflecting a strong futures market. The agriculture department's grain division said: Spring wheat was little changed. Soybean prices advanced three-fourths cent per bushel on good demand, stimulated by slow country selling, strength in oil, and larger-than-expected inspections for export.

Smaller Crop Expected in Idaho Hops

BOISE, Oct. 16 — The Oct. 1 forecast for hop production is 53.8 million pounds, five per cent above last year and 18 per cent above average according to the crop reporting board.

An increase from September indicated yield in Washington more than offset the lighter yield in Idaho and California.

Both Idaho and California expect crops smaller than last year and average. In Washington, where more than one-half of the U. S. crop is produced, a record acreage and good yields have resulted in a record production.

Early clusters in Washington were heavier than expected with not only more hops but also heavier weight.

Production in Idaho turned out lighter than anticipated earlier mostly due to the windstorm of July 20. However, the light turn-out of late clusters was also a factor. A good quality crop was harvested in Oregon and California.

California's production is down from last year and average because of a reduction in acreage.

Agriculture Department Reports 1965 Wheat Program Enrollment Will Rise

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The agriculture department reports that enrollment in the government's 1965 wheat support program will be up substantially from 1964.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said in a statement with the report that the increased enrollment, if it holds, means that total wheat income from the 1965 crop will be above the 1964 level.

Freeman said it would be even further above the level farmers could expect if there were no price support program.

The report said a total of 780,001 winter wheat farms had been signed up to participate in the 1965-crop support program. This accounts for about 51 per cent of all winter wheat growers.

If spring wheat growers participate at the same level as in 1964, the total winter-and-spring wheat sign-up would amount to more than 800,000 farms for 1965. In 1964 only 612,000 farms enrolled in the program, about 36 per cent of the nation's wheat-growing farms.

The agriculture department said the winter wheat farms enrolled for price support in 1965 have acreage allotments of more than 3.4 million acres. This means that 82 per cent of next year's winter wheat acreage will be under price support.

The report was the final one on the sign-up of winter wheat farms for the 1965 program. Growers who produce spring wheat will be able to enroll in the program next February and March.

The government program was voted by congress at the request of the administration last spring. The program offers price support payments to growers who voluntarily agree to comply with federal acreage allotments.

Farmers who comply with the program in 1965 will be eligible for price support loans at $1.25 a bushel. In addition, growers will get extra income from federal marketing certificates. The certificates, issued to participating farmers on part of their crop, can be exchanged for cash.

Freeman said that more than three-quarters of the farmers for whom winter wheat is a major crop have enrolled in the 1965 program. He called the sign-up total a vote of confidence in congressional passage of the controversial new wheat program.

Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Orange, followed the announcement with a statement praising the increased 1965 sign-up. Newsom, a strong supporter of the new program, said participation will continue to increase as farmers understand the program better.

Efficiency in Feeding Is Swine Study Subject

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—The greatest difference between high and low return hog enterprises in 1963 was due to feeding efficiency and feed cost per 100 pounds, reports D. P. Wilken, University of Illinois farm management specialist, in a recently published summary of farm business records.

The study included 100 high and 100 low return farms in a sample of 709 farms farrowing ten or more litters a year.

Returns per $100 feed fed were $158 for the high group and $111 for the low group and averaged $131 on all farms.

The saving of $2.70 per 100 pounds in feed costs on the high-return farms compared with the low-return group amounted to a total saving of about $2,000 a farm.

Other differences in favor of the high-return farms show 0.6 more pig weaned per litter, 0.7 per cent lower death loss and 67 cents more per 100 pounds received for pork sold.

Between 1955 and 1963, the average also the hog enterprise increased at the rate of about three litters a year; from 41 litters per farm to 65.

Associated Press Survey Shows Many Farming Regions Are Hit by Disaster

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 (AP)—The nation's farmers have moved into the fall harvest season hoping for relief from a late-season drought that already has cost nearly 300 million dollars in crop damage, an Associated Press survey shows.

Some farmers compared the summer of 1964 with the dust bowl days of the dry mid-1930s. Many states reported the summer as the driest on record.

A state-by-state survey today indicated that the most heavily damaged crops were corn, soybeans, sorghum and wheat. Many unharvested fruit crops were expected to suffer later this fall and agriculture officials estimate the total drought loss will exceed the $60 million dollar.

The worst drought areas were in the eastern section of the country, with Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New York among the hardest hit. Lack of water has dried up thousands of pastures, resulting in heavy losses for dairy farmers in the East and Middle West.

And allis throughout the country were empty or near empty, lacking livestock fodder for the winter.

Here's a sectional rundown of conditions in states hit hardest: Pennsylvania—Farm loss expected to total $50 million dollars with income in northeastern part of the state off as much as 50 per cent.

New Jersey—Crop loss in corn hay and vegetable crops could total $11.5 million dollars. Birds eating crops because their natural feed dried up.

Connecticut—Drought second or third worst since 1900, with rainfall averaging three inches below normal.

New York—Drought hitting pastures and hay crop resulting in critical dairy farm situation. No estimate of loss available, but agency areas.

West Virginia—Severe drought conditions in parts of state with 10 counties declared disaster areas.

Massachusetts—Hay hardest hit, down 10 per cent from five-year average. Cranberries also affected. Five southern counties declared disaster areas because of drought.

North Carolina—Three counties disaster areas because of June drought.

Virginia—Drought relief aid granted to 28 counties.

Kansas—Grain and corn production hardest hit, with crops as much as one-third below 1963's totals.

Colorado—Drought loss between 40 and 80 million dollars with wheat crop off by 20 million bushels.

Indiana—Crop loss estimated at 70 million dollars. Rainfall four inches below normal, hitting corn and soybean markets. Minnesota—Worst drought in southeastern part of state since the 1930s, say farmers.

Wisconsin—Thirty-five counties seeking extension of federal drought aid.

Ohio—August-September drought lasted 28 days, bringing disaster to crops in southern half of state. Kentucky—Tobacco crop loss set at 30 million dollars. Nevada—Drought conditions still exist in southern Nevada where grazing conditions poor. Fire hazard very high.

Idaho Honey Crop Falls Below 1963

BOISE, Oct. 16 — The 1964 honey crop in Idaho is expected to total 10,741,000 pounds—down to the crop reporting service.

Production at this level is 27 per cent below last year's record high of 14,697,000 pounds.

However, it is 12 per cent above the 1963-64 average production of 9,620,000 pounds. Colony numbers were at a new record high this year—211,000 in 1964 compared to 207,000 for a year earlier.

Yield per colony this year, at 51 pounds was 28 per cent below last year's 71 pounds but was four per cent above the 1963-64 average of 49 pounds. Most colonies were in good condition at the beginning of the early season flow.

However, continuous cool weather from early spring through late June slowed plant growth and hindered bee activity. Warm weather early in July stimulated plant growth and development.

The early season flow was good but was cut short by returning cool weather in late July. Rain-fall during the main honey flow was generally light but bee activity was hindered by the continuous cool weather.

The main honey flow was quite late again this year with some activity extending into September. Losses from insecticides were reportedly quite heavy this year. With the cool weather predominating the season, sprayings did not dissipate fast enough to avoid injury to bees.

Honey stocks on hand for sale as of Sept. 15, 1964 were estimated at 3,558,000 pounds or 47 per cent of the 1964 production. Compared with a year earlier, producers had 736,000 pounds of honey for sale on Sept. 15, 1963.

This was equal to 50 per cent of the 1963 production. For the 1963-64 period, producers had an average of 50 per cent of the production for sale in mid-September.

The 1964 honey crop nationally is expected to total 203 million pounds. This is two per cent less than the record 209 million pounds produced in 1963, but 11 per cent above the 1958-62 average.

Production per colony is expected to average 51.9 pounds, four per cent below last year's record high of 54.2 pounds. The 1,645,000 colonies on hand July 1, 1964 were two per cent more than last year.

Yields decreased sharply compared with last year in Montana, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Idaho. Montana average yield fell from 125 pounds in 1963 to 63 pounds per colony this year.

Yields in Oregon and Washington were up slightly, but dry weather in California during late spring and early summer cut honey per colony yields below last year.

The citrus honey flow in California was about average this year.

Stocks of honey on hand for sale by producers on Sept. 15 totaled 10,742,000 compared with 10,443,000 pounds a year earlier.

This year's stocks on hand were 38 per cent of production compared with 35 per cent last year.

Movement of honey has been somewhat slower this year, resulting in higher producer stocks.

Conservation Program for 1965 Is Reported by ASC

The agricultural conservation program for 1965 will again encourage farmers to shift from production of surplus crops to conserving land uses and to establish practices for conservation of soil, water, woodland, and wildlife, where needed, according to Carl Boyd, chairman, Twin Falls county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee.

"The state has been allocated $1,022,000 in program funds this year to help carry out conservation practices on farms."

The chairman explained that the local cost-sharing program has been formulated with the national program authority, to include practices which will best meet the conservation problems of the county. This is done annually by an ACP development group, composed of the ASC committee, soil conservation service technicians and Federal forest service foresters advised by others with conservation interests.

As in previous years, farmer-elected ASC committees will administer the program and will relate it to work plans of the local soil and water conservation districts. The soil conservation service and forestry agencies are responsible for technical phases of certain practices. A list of approved ACP practices—for which the program will again cover approximately half the cost—is available at the AGOS county office.

In announcing the national ACP for 1965, the 30th program year, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman said, "This program, which reaches into every state and agricultural county, is playing an increasingly important role in our efforts to improve rural areas not only in their physical environment, but also in their economic outlook. It is an important part of the on-going war against poverty."

"Rural lands are the source of nearly all the nation's food and fiber, but it neglected these lands are also the source of soil erosion and silted streams. The farm fields where ACP is helping to promote conservation measures contribute vitally to clean usable water for the day-to-day living of our towns and cities as well as for the industry."

Less Hogs Could Steady Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16, AP — Hog producers this fall and winter will have fewer hogs to sell than they did a year ago but prices are expected to be substantially above 1963 levels.

Agriculture department economists estimate that hog slaughter from October through December will be down about five per cent from last year's rate. But prices will probably be considerably above last year's October-December average of $14.72 a hundred weight.

Hog prices in the month ending Sept. 15 averaged $16.20 a hundredweight, 70 cents above the figure for a year ago.

secondary benefits through creating more wildlife habitat and recreation opportunities.

"I am particularly gratified by ACP's progress in helping low-income farmers, including many who have been doing little or no conservation work, to make better use of their limited physical resources. I hope that more and more farmers will use the program to bring about needed land-use adjustments such as shifting land out of row crops and small grains of which we have more than enough, to vegetative cover which has enduring benefits."

Cooperative Role Praised By Agriculture Official

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — An agriculture department official has praised the role of cooperatives in building friendship for the United States in other countries.

The official is John Baker, an assistant secretary of agriculture. His comment came in a publication just issued by an agriculture department agency, the farmer cooperative service.

Baker said American co-ops have been generous in contributing their knowledge, manpower, and money to development programs abroad.

"This has brought a better knowledge of what the real America is like. It has brought better to emerging nations that they, too, can solve their problems in a Democratic and self-help manner."

This praise for the role of cooperatives in international affairs came as the department opened its observance of October as cooperative month.

The observance has been recognized in proclamations by the governors of Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan, North Dakota, Washington, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Wisconsin, and Maine.

The agriculture department has opened a Washington exhibit to demonstrate its work with cooperatives. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said at the opening ceremonies that many Americans fail to realize what a major role co-ops play in the free-enterprise economy.

Early Frost Adds Strength For Idaho Potato Market

BOISE, Oct. 16 — Frost damage in September has added strength to the potato market, the University of Idaho extension service said today. Reduction in tonnage may be greater than usual because of frost in August and early September coupled with late planting, but it appears the crop will be of better storage quality, said R. Wayne Robinson, extension economist, in the October issue of Economic Facts—Idaho Agriculture.

"Yield estimates in a number of areas has been reduced because of frost damage," he said. "Ordinarily, these reports would not be too alarming because research shows that only about 10 per cent of potato weight development occurs in the last 25 or 30 days of the growing season. But late planting and poor stands in some areas make it difficult to appraise the influence of these developments. The outcome remains to be seen as we get further into the harvesting season."

Although total supplies to be marketed from the national fall crop appear to be smaller than last year, it is anticipated that some areas in southeastern Idaho will have better yields and quality than last year. The major reduction in production will likely be concentrated in large size potatoes while supplies of smaller potatoes may be greater than last year. The Idaho crop, in general, is expected to store better than the 1963 crop. Prices for the larger size potatoes are expected to average above a year earlier with a bigger price spread between the larger and smaller sizes than usual.

The total Idaho crop was estimated September 1 at 33 million hundredweight—down seven per cent from August and seven per cent below average. The national crop of fall potatoes is forecast to be the smallest since 1950.

Current conditions, Robinson said, suggest a strong market for quality fall potatoes. Potato prices have been firm in view of a smaller late summer crop and reduced prospects for the fall crop.

Days in grey were not suitable for fertilizer application.

So fertilize this FALL!

Last spring was a bad one. Sloppy weather—in February, March, and April—right when you needed time in the fields. Look at April—Twenty-one days when the weather was too bad to permit fertilizer application. Next spring may be as bad—or worse.

Why take a chance with the weather?—Fertilize this fall!

There are many reasons for fall fertilization. You avoid foul spring weather, and the early season rush. Fall fertilization works for you all winter long, decaying soil residues, and crops get off to a fast start in the spring. Fall fertilization reduces soil compaction and makes plant nutrients available in the soil when they are needed by your crops.

Idaho Red Meat Total Increases

BOISE, Oct. 16 — The production of red meat by commercial slaughter plants in Idaho during August, 1964, is estimated at 16,804,000 pounds by the crop reporting service.

This is one per cent above the output of July, 1964, and nine per cent above August, 1963. The cumulative production of red meat for January through August this year totaled 115,522,000 pounds, or about one per cent above the same period of last year.

The estimated dressed weight of cattle and hogs slaughtered during August was above a year earlier. The dressed weight of calves and sheep was below a year ago.

A comparison of August, 1964, with a year earlier shows more cattle and hogs slaughtered, but fewer sheep, while the number of calves remained the same. During the eight-month period of 1964 there has been more cattle slaughtered than during the same period of 1963 but fewer calves, hogs and sheep.

The average liveweight per animal slaughtered during August was above a year earlier for hogs but below 1963 for cattle, calves and sheep.

The average liveweight per animal slaughtered during August was above a year earlier for hogs but below 1963 for cattle, calves and sheep.

Commercial production of red meat nationally during August of the 48 states was 2,410 million pounds, up one per cent from a year earlier, but five per cent less than the previous month. Commercial meat production included slaughter in federal inspected and other commercial plants but excludes farm slaughter.

Beef production during August was 1,471 million pounds, up five per cent from August, 1963, but five per cent below July, 1964. The number of cattle slaughtered during August was 3,598,000 head, nine per cent greater than a year earlier, but two per cent less than the previous month.

The average live weight of cattle slaughtered in August was 562 pounds per head, 18 pounds less than August, 1963, and 13 pounds below July, 1964.

There were 23 million pounds of veal produced during August, nine per cent more than a year earlier, and two per cent more than a month earlier.

The 602,500 head of calves slaughtered during August was five per cent above August, 1963, and two per cent more than July, 1964. Calves slaughtered during August averaged 347 pounds per head live weight, 15 pounds heavier than last year, and one pound more than the previous month.

Pork production during August was 813 million pounds, five per cent less than August, 1963, and July, 1964. The hog kill for August was 1,880,000 head, six per cent less than a year earlier, and two per cent below the previous month.

The average live weight of hogs slaughtered during August was 230 pounds per head, three pounds heavier than August last year, but six pounds lighter than a month earlier. Lard rendered per 100 pounds of live weight of hogs during August was 12.1 pounds, the same as July. It was 11.9 pounds in August, 1963, and 12.1 pounds in July, 1964.

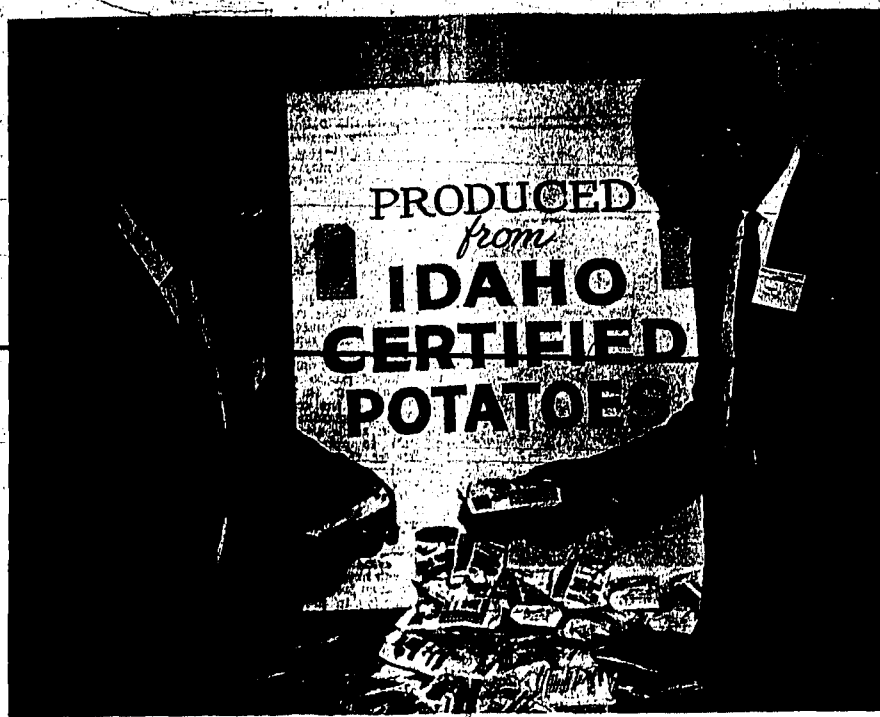

There were 83 million pounds of lamb and mutton produced during August, down 17 per cent from a year earlier and nine per cent less than a month earlier. The number of lambs slaughtered during August was 1,187,600 head, 15 per cent less than August, 1963, and eight per cent less than July, 1964. Sheep and lambs slaughtered during the month averaged 95 pounds per head live weight, the same as a year earlier, but one pound heavier than the previous month.

Expansion Is Predicted For Apples

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — The agriculture department predicts apple production in the United States will expand for the next five to 10 years.

The expansion will be due mainly to the many young trees planted during the past 15 years and to the probability of continuing heavy plantings. Yields per tree are expected to increase because of improving varieties and better cultural methods. Another factor is the enlarged surface of bearing trees, the agency said.

Upward trends in production are expected in Washington, New York, Michigan, Oregon, Idaho and some of the Appalachian states, the department said. A relatively new development in the apple industry is the planting of substantial numbers of dwarf-type apple trees in some states. The department said the per acre potential of dwarf and semi-dwarf trees are expected to be somewhat greater than for standard type trees. Consumption of fresh apples tended to decline between 1950 and 1963, the department said, but is now increasing. Apples are expected to be more than offset by sharp increases in use of canned applesauce, apple juice, frozen apples, fresh applesauce. Consumption of canned applesauce and dried apples declined. The department said large supplies of apples would be favorable to increased exports, especially in years of heavy crops in Canada and western Europe.

C. H. H. Farnell, right, Canadian department of agriculture representative, was among the many recipients of the Idaho potato samples of potato products at the annual meeting of the International Crop Improvement association at Victoria, B.C.

Sportsman Comments on Pesticides

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 — Largely overlooked until now, there is authoritative evidence that in at least one area of the United States 40 years of use of pesticides by farmers has increased, repeat, increased—the wild-life population.

That area is the fertile Yazoo-Mississippi delta, an extremely fertile farm region that begins just south of Memphis, Tenn., and extends 200 miles or more southward along both sides of the Mississippi river.

Writing in the September 1964 issue of Field and Stream magazine, Mabry I. Anderson, noted sportsman, conservationist and crop sprayer, calls the Yazoo-Mississippi delta "the most heavily poisoned area in the world."

The general use of pesticides, he writes, grew up in the area and was a common practice as early as 1924.

"This treatment is absolutely essential," Anderson continues, "since the damp, humid climate of the delta produces an unbelievable number of destructive insects."

In 1946, when pesticide use became big business, wildlife populations in the delta, and all over Mississippi, were at relatively low levels. Deer were legal in only a few counties; even as late as 1953 the legal kill of bucks was only 3,300. However, population increases began about 1946, and they skyrocketed the kill at a rate of more than 20 per cent increase each year. In 1962 the legal kill had risen to 14,887; the 1963 kill is estimated to be more than 18,000.

Wild turkey were at a completely low ebb in 1946 that a completely closed season was ordered for 1947 and 1948. In 1946, populations began to climb steadily. Today counties with open turkey seasons have almost doubled, and in the delta, where pesticide use is heaviest, open seasons have almost tripled, with the bag limit raised from one to three birds a year. Most upland game has followed the same pattern, wherever suitable habitat existed. Doves, quail, rabbits, and squirrels were never more abundant than now, and fishing is unsurpassed.

Anderson also makes this point: "With such a well-known proving ground available, it is singularly odd in the midst of the current anti-pesticide hue and cry that an almost 'hush-hush' attitude prevails when it is pointed out that the delta has dealt with this matter for almost four decades!"

High Temperatures, Dry Weather Cut Prospects of Producing Top Harvest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — High temperatures and dry weather cut deeply into the crop production prospects during August and caused a decline in per-acre yields of feed grains, the agriculture department reports.

The September crop report said the all crop production index fell two per cent in August. The Sept. 1 production index was 100 per cent of the 1961-63 base period, and was three per cent below the record output of 1963.

The composite yield index of yield per acre covering 23 major crops dropped to 113 on Sept. 1, down two per cent from the index of 115 a month earlier and three per cent below the 1963 record of 116.

Corn and soybeans were the hardest hit by drought conditions during August. The department estimated corn prospects down six per cent from last month's forecast, but slightly larger than the record produced last year and 17 per cent above average.

The department's crop reporting board said the corn and soybean prospects were severely cramped by above normal temperatures early in August and moisture shortages until late in the month over most of the corn belt. Crops improved during the months in most of the South Atlantic and South Central States, but dry conditions plagued the North east. The board said crop prospects held their own or improved in most of the western states.

Feed grain output for 1964 was forecast at 130 million tons. This is four per cent below the 140 million tons estimated as of Aug. 1 and 11 per cent less than the 1963 output of nearly 155 million tons.

20-25 was 12 per cent below a year earlier and at a record low for this period in late September. The number of hired workers fell sharply below a year earlier, totaling 2,134,000 persons, a reduction of 20 per cent below the comparable period in 1963.

National Farmers Union President Proposes Study to Survey Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — The national Farmers Union asked top labor leaders to join in studying a proposal to organize a giant new farmer-labor food cooperative.

The proposal for the co-op comes from James C. Patton, Farmers Union president. He says the new organization would be an integrated system for producing, processing and retailing food products.

Patton first outlined his proposal in general terms in a speech last week to a meeting of the International Association of Machinists at Miami.

Patton said the new co-op would have to be financed by credit from government agencies. He suggested it might be patterned after the rural electrification administration.

An agriculture department official told United Press International that the department had taken no position on Patton's idea.

John A. Baker, an assistant secretary of agriculture, pointed out that Congress recently set up a commission to study the nation's food marketing system. The commission is scheduled to make a report on how the system has changed in recent years and how well it serves the nation's needs.

Baker said he thought government officials would have to see the results of the study before they could evaluate the plan.

Patton said the new organization he proposed could be a fair competitor for existing food chains. He said it could serve as a yardstick for measuring fair prices.

The Farmers Union president said retail stores in his proposed new co-op would reduce food prices for consumers. He added that savings in marketing, processing, and distribution would be shared by Farmers Union members and AFL-CIO members through their organizations.

Patton said the proposed system should put the responsibility for farm production decisions in the hands of farmers. But he added that where hired labor was involved in the co-op, it would be organized by agreements under existing law.

Surplus Wheat Sales Come Under Fire of Congressman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — Agriculture department sales of surplus wheat destined for another upturn is expected in the sales which have drawn sharp criticism from Rep. Paul Findley, R. Ill.

Findley has urged President Johnson to order the department to stop its sales of surplus wheat. The Illinois congressman says this would allow market prices to rise for farmers.

Department sales of wheat from July 1 through Sept. 18 amounted to more than 94.3 million bushels. In the same period one-year ago, government wheat sales were nearly 50.7 million bushels.

Recent sales were about four million bushels, a drop of about 1.8 million bushels from a prior week. But Robert C. Lewis, an agriculture department official, said that the report will be up again.

Lewis says sales have been heavy this year for several reasons, including the fact that some farmers have been slow in moving their 1964 crop to market.

Another factor, according to Lewis, is the temporary heavy demand from processors and exporters who reduced stocks before the new federal wheat program took effect last July.

Wheat Sales Rise Above Last Season

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP) — The agriculture department's wheat sales rose sharply last week for the second week in a row, and now are running almost 70 per cent ahead of last season's pace.

Since July 1 of this year, the department has sold nearly 131 million bushels of wheat for domestic and export use. In the same period one year ago, sales amounted to about 70 million bushels.

The department reported that sales in the week ended Sept. 25 rose to 25,000,000 bushels. For the previous week, wheat sales had been 10 million bushels. Department records show that about two-thirds of all the government-owned wheat sold since July has been earmarked for export markets.

Tour Slated Of King Hill Canal Area

KING HILL, Oct. 16—A tour of the King Hill Irrigation company canal will be held Monday, Oct. 19, at 10 a.m., by the board of directors, announces.

The tour will start at 1 p.m. at King Hill and travel along the main canal to the south side of the head end at Maled, river. All directors will participate and farmers and any interested persons are invited.

Work has started on the canal which was disrupted last Saturday. Bids are being received for the construction of the main siphon which will begin Oct. 25.

Board members have approved a request from the Black Mesa Cottonwood Mutual company to install pipe line from the Snake river up the hill over the top of the canal, 10 miles southeast of King Hill where a new farm project is under way.

Several hundred acres of potatoes and grain are to be planted there next spring.

Indemnity Payments To Increase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Crop insurance indemnity payments to farmers will be up about $5 million dollars this year because of the summer drought.

The federal crop insurance corporation estimates that indemnity payments on 1964 crops will amount to about 20 million dollars. In 1963, the government corporation paid loss claims of 22.5 million dollars.

A crop insurance official reports that practically all of the increase was due to drought. About 11 million dollars of the 1964 payments will cover drought damage to just one crop—corn. These losses were concentrated in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and South Dakota.

Farmers in Minnesota alone will collect 7 million dollars under their crop insurance policies. This will be the biggest sum paid out by the crop insurance corporation in any single state since 1954.

Officials of the corporation note that in spite of the increased drought losses, they will end the year with a premium surplus. The 1964 indemnity payments will amount to about 85 cents of each dollar collected in crop insurance premiums.

Farm Bureau Stand Stated In Magazine

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—"Can the Leopard Change His Spots?" This is the subject of President Charles B. Shuman's column in the October issue of "Nation's Agriculture," published by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

He points out that several candidates facing election are making statements which are not entirely in keeping with their past voting records. Some of them are trying to convince voters that they no longer seek to replace the competitive free enterprise system with a socialist government managed economy.

President Shuman urges voters to look at the candidates' records and then vote their convictions, for "the leopard does not change his spots."

Another story in this issue compares the platforms adopted by the two major political party conventions with Farm Bureau recommendations. It also details the farm planks in both platforms.

Committee Is Formed to Boost Event

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—The agriculture department has organized a committee to plan American participation in the 17th International Dairy Congress in 1965.

The world dairy science meeting will be held in 1965 in Munich, Germany. Dr. Ralph E. Holston, an agriculture department scientist, has been named chairman of the committee for American participation.

He also has been appointed as U. S. liaison officer for the meeting.

Some 4,000 dairy scientists and technologists from all over the world are expected to attend the congress. The event will include general and scientific conferences, as well as an international exhibit of dairy machinery and equipment.

Foreign Exhibit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman announced that the department plans to expand its overseas sales promotion campaign in 1965.

Freeman says American food promotion exhibits are planned for four major international trade fairs in Europe next year. Among the fairs is a display of American foods at the Ideal Home Show in London next March, the world's largest trade and consumer exhibit.

SHADE KEEPS WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—Corn silage has kept in a trench silo for 14 years and come out with a good color and good smell, according to a report in New Holland's "Grassland News."

Corn, Grain Production Decreases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—The agriculture department estimates the year's production of corn for grain at 2,554,869,000 bushels and of all wheat at 1,235,982,000 bushels. For corn this was a decrease of two per cent from a month ago and for wheat a decrease of less than one per cent.

The corn figure compares with 3,840,287,000 bushels forecast last month, 4,081,791,000 last year and 3,870,218,000 for the five-year 1958-62 average.

The new wheat estimate compares with the September forecast of 1,285,982,000, last year's crop of 1,137,641,000 and 1,252,847,000 for the five-year average.

The winter wheat estimate was unchanged from last month's 1,081,028,000 bushels and it compares with 1,004,928,000 last year and 1,019,570,000 for the average.

Feed Grain Exports Hit Record High

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman says exports of American feed grains hit a new record high in the year which ended on June 30.

American farmers produced 18.1 million tons of feed grains for foreign buyers in the 1953-54 marketing year. This was more than half of the world's total trade in corn, sorghums, oats, and barley.

The 1953-54 exports were worth $50 million dollars, up five per cent from the previous year.

U.S. Farm Labor Force Decreases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—The crop reporting board said the number of persons at work on farms during the August 23-29 survey week was 7,159,000, down seven per cent from a year earlier and a new low for the month.

Family farm workers totaled 4,000,000 persons, four per cent fewer than a year earlier.

Hired hands totaled 3,259,000 persons, by far the lowest on record for this time of year and 12 per cent below the comparable week last year.

Illinois Farm Group Pioneers Trip To Europe To Promote State Produce

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Members of a privately sponsored trade development mission began a round of merchandising calls in England in an effort to stimulate interest in commodities produced in Illinois.

The 63-member group, representing Illinois farm leaders, food handlers, and food processors, will spend the next three weeks promoting Illinois-produced commodities in England, the Netherlands, Belgium, France, West Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and Spain.

The mission is under the sponsorship of the Illinois Agricultural Association, the largest state affiliate of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Farmers and their wives comprise a majority of the mission.

William J. Kuhfuss, Mackinaw, Ill., president of the state group and leader of the mission, said the members want to meet Europeans who are interested in doing business in buying U. S. products.

Under the program, farmers in designated drought areas are eligible to buy government-owned feed grains at reduced prices.

Samples of many Illinois-produced commodities already have been sent to the cities on the mission's itinerary. The samples include canned corn, canned meat, pork and beans, soybeans, corn, popcorn, honey, apples, cultured sour cream, egg, boned chicken and other chicken products, and brat turkey.

Kuhfuss said he hoped contacts would be made with overseas livestock buyers who would be interested in cattle and hogs. He said mission members would stress the value of U. S. livestock as breeding stock.

The mission will tour Copenhagen, Brussels, and London. It will make a stop in London to meet with the British Meat Producers' Association.

Kuhfuss said if the mission is a success, groups from other states likely would go to Europe to sell their products.

Dealers Urged to Comply With Drought Aid Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UPI)—Grain and feed dealers have been urged to comply strictly with regulations governing the agriculture department's drought relief food program.

The warning comes from the Grain and Feed Dealers National association, an industry trade group.

The association says dealers who sell feed to farmers under the federal drought-relief program can expect a government audit in future years. The group says dealers should be careful to avoid any accidental violation of the rules governing the program.
